Parks for Locality Requested of State

In a recent letter to Governor Harriman the Mayor of Kingston urges him to use his influence to obtain one or more state parks for Ulster County.

Mayor Edwin F. Radel, in a letter Sept. 22, asked the Governor to arrange a survey of state recreational facilities in the county, indicating he was confident such a survey would disclose a "distinct absence" of any state-operated summer facilities for boating, bathing, golfing and other summer sports.

Stresses Kingston Point
He cited, in particular, the great potential at Kingston Point and suggested the possibility of establishing a modern boat basin with facilities to handle an ever-increasing enthusiasm for boating in the area.

Improvement of swamp area by dredging from the Hudson river channel during deepening operations was also considered in the Mayor's letter.

Anticipates Favorable Reply
Mayor Radel told The Freeman he anticipated a favorable reply from the Governor's office in the near future.

He mentioned the possibility of establishing a state-operated golf course similar to those at Staatsburg, Poughkeepsie and other Dutchess county sites.

Mayor Radel suggested the possibility of linking the creation of such a state facility with the 1959 Hudson-Champlain celebration.

Text of Letter
His letter follows:
"During the last several weeks the newspapers have carried articles about state participation in enlarging certain facilities of the state parks already in existence and the developing of new land into new state parks."

"The area around the city of Kingston, in fact throughout the entire county of Ulster, is completely devoid of state facilities for summer activities."
"In the county of Dutchess, the residents are blessed and endowed with state parks of all types in any direction you may travel. Extensive, adequate and, I add, extremely attractive facilities for swimming, boating, golfing, fishing, yachting, camping, picnicking and just plain relaxing are available in abundance in all sections of Dutchess County.

"By comparison, Ulster County has not one state-operated park with any of the above facilities that I can recall. The need is here and the people are eager for the recognition that past state administrations failed to provide for them. This part is clearly evident by the great numbers of our residents who travel great distances each summer weekend to patronize the facilities in the neighboring counties even as far as the Connecticut border to the east and to many distant points north like Lake George—just for a Sunday's enjoyment.

Uses Beach as Example
"A small beach along the Hudson River leased and operated by the city attracts several thousand people each Saturday and Sunday when weather permits. I outlined the potential of this area in a letter earlier this year directed to Sharon Mauchs. Years ago this area was the center of activity for daily and nightly entertainment, including bathing, band concerts, games, park areas, picnicking, roving and numerous other activities. The years have seen a deterioration of the area which was aided by cancelling of Day Line stops at Kingston Point, the area I am concerned with.

"Now the modern trend caused by an upsurge in small boating points to this area once again as an ideal location for a modern Marina and I know that the state showed an interest in this earlier this year when surveys were taken. The time is ideal and the need the greatest.

"Our city of Kingston has as its borders the Hudson River, the Rondout Creek, and the Esopus Creek as well as enjoying a close proximity to many undeveloped bodies of water and the beautiful Ashokan Reservoir. The recent past has brought a new enthusiasm to pleasure boating in the area and a survey of the natural areas ready for development will make it immediately evident to you and your department that a project along our shoreline which could encompass boating, camping, picnicking and swimming and possibly play areas for children would be a tremendous asset to the state park system and a project that would meet with the intense gratitude of the people of (Continued on Page 6, Col. 2)

IBM to Vacate Bowlorium Site

The former Ruzzo Bowlorium on Grand Street, which has been leased to IBM since February 1953, is to be vacated when the present lease expires Feb. 1, 1959, it was learned today.

It was at the former Bowlorium that IBM established its first plant in Kingston prior to construction of its plant in the Town of Ulster, north of the Kingston City line.

Former Bowling Center
Built as a bowling center, the premises were later acquired by the late Surrogate Judge George F. Kaufman and is presently owned by that estate of which the Kingston Trust Company is executor.

IBM leased the premises in February 1953 for two years with a three-year renewal right. The renewal was entered into and the period of the five-year lease expires in February, 1959. Notice has been given the Kingston Trust Company, executors of the Kaufman estate that the premises will be vacated at the expiration of the lease. Of late, the property has been used for laboratory purposes and completion of the new IBM laboratory in the Town of Ulster make the Grand Street plant no longer necessary.

Some Show Interest
George Rusk, counsel, today said that the premises would be available for lease next February, and that there had already been inquiries received by the bank in regard to leasing the property.

Burton to Quit High Court Post After 13 Years

WASHINGTON, (AP) — Justice Harold H. Burton is retiring next Monday after 13 years on the Supreme Court—opening the way for the court's first Eisenhower-appointed majority.

The White House announced the 70-year-old jurist's unexpected request for retirement Monday night a short time after the court opened its regular fall term.

No Tip on Successor
The announcement gave no indication of whom President Eisenhower might name as a successor to Burton or how soon he might act.

Burton, a Republican, wrote Eisenhower he was retiring "with regret but in accordance with competent medical advice and with a desire to serve the best interests of all concerned." Burton's two-paragraph letter didn't elaborate.

Approving the request, Eisenhower praised Burton for "devoted and dedicated public service."

Eisenhower's appointment of a successor will be his fifth to the nine-man court.

Except for his selection of Chief Justice Warren—a former California governor and twice an aspirant for the Republican presidential nomination — Eisenhower has picked Supreme Court judges from other judicial posts.

Of the three other Eisenhower appointees, Justices John M. Harlan and Charles Evans Whittaker were federal appeals court judges and Justice William J. Brennan was a member of the New Jersey State Supreme Court.

With Burton leaving, the court has five Democratic and three Republican members, the latter being Warren, Harlan and Whitaker.

Burton's retirement leaves the court with only one justice, Tom C. Clark, who was appointed by former President Truman. The other three were named by Franklin D. Roosevelt. They are Justices Hugo L. Black, Felix Frankfurter and William O. Douglas.

Traffic Speaker to Return; Opposes Monopolizing Meters

William G. Barr, executive director, National Parking Association, Washington, D. C., so impressed a small group of business men last night at a meeting of the Kingston Uptown Business Men's Association, that he has been invited to return here and address a dinner meeting.

Speaking on the all important topic of "parking," Barr in rapid fire order answered numerous questions asked by local business men as to the local problem.

It was announced today that Barr would return to Kingston to address a dinner meeting to be scheduled in the next three or four weeks.

Speaking on parking problems, Barr told the Kingston group that usually he went to the community to start "from the ground up," but that Kingston had already established a parking meter and parking lot program.

Taking the matter up from there he pointed out that parking meters are designed to give "turn over" and that meters which are used hour after hour by the same car are not being used to their full extent. Any meter which is used by a parker for more than an hour is not giving the proper turn-over to meet the merchant's parking problem, he said.

The local traffic pattern, additional parking for the future and better use of present parking was discussed. Barr in remarking on the better turnover of present parking meters said that in many communities where the regular police did not have time to check meters at short intervals, special women officers were engaged to check meters and see that vehicles did not remain at a meter beyond the hour. This pattern makes for greater parking facilities for shoppers and also eliminates the all-day parking by merchants and their employees who "feed" the meters hourly and deprive shoppers of parking space.

Quemoy Guns Fire on Planes, Truce Is Not Broken: Taipei

Pope Still Grave, Paralysis Is Over

CASTEL GANDOLFO, Italy (AP)—Pope Pius XII continues to show improvement, an official medical bulletin announced today.

The bulletin, third released since the 82-year-old head of the Roman Catholic Church was felled by a cerebral stroke Monday, indicated the pontiff's tremendous continuing resistance to the inroads of illness.

Cautious Expressions
For the first time since the stroke partially paralyzed the Pope some 26 hours before, there was cautious expression of hope that he could recover.

Even so, his condition continued to be regarded as grave. The bulletin, read in the square outside the Pope's summer residence, said:
"The condition of His Holiness, in general, continued to improve throughout the night. His senses appear to be completely lucid. There are no signs of failure of the movements. Last night the hiccups (with which the Pope has been troubled for a week) again reappeared, but they disappeared early this morning."

Has Quiet Night
Earlier Msgr. Angelo dell'Acqua the Vatican substitute secretary of state, told newsmen the Pope had spent a quiet night and "his improvement is satisfactory and progressive."

One of the attending doctors, Prof. Ermanno Mingazzini, said the Pope this morning had been able to take solid food — some shredded chicken in thin broth—for the first time since the stroke. Mingazzini also said a kidney block which developed Monday had been overcome.

The bulletin added, "There are no signs of motor deficiency. This indicated that the partial paralysis which accompanied the stroke had ended."

The bulletin was signed by the Pope's personal physician, Prof. Riccardo Galeazzi-Lisi; Antonio Gasbarrini, a specialist from Bologna; Mingazzini; and Ferdinando Corelli.

Many Maintain Vigil
Scores of persons maintained a vigil outside the palace in this hill town 18 miles south of Rome. Thousands of messages of hope for his recovery poured into the Vatican. Around the world prayers were said.

The Pope suffered a blocking of blood to the brain soon after saying mass and receiving communion Monday. He fell into a coma and was partially paralyzed. Extreme Unction, the last rite of the Roman Catholic Church, was given, and members of his family were summoned.

Later in the day the pontiff rallied, and a bulletin at night said his condition had "appreciably improved" so far as the circulatory disturbances were concerned.

Kiwanis Has Given $18,800 in School Grants Since 1944

The Kiwanis Club of Kingston has distributed $18,800 in scholarships since 1944, the year its present series of awards began.

A total of 61 boys and 38 girls have benefited from the awards, which are applied to their expenses for their first year in college or nursing school.

Kapers Provide Funds
The club's scholarship fund is maintained through the annual Kiwanis Kapers show, which is written, produced, staged and acted by Kiwanians.

This year's production will be held October 27, 28 and 29 at the George Washington School.

This year, scholarships were awarded six girls and five boys, for a total of $2,350—highest yearly distribution in the club's history. One award, the Morris Samter Memorial Award, is an endowed award made possible through the generosity of the late Mr. Samter, a past president of the club, and has been given annually since 1952. All the others came from the proceeds of last year's Kapers show.

Other Projects
In addition to its major project of scholarships, the club also sponsors a team in the Babe Ruth Baseball League, provides equipment for the Ulster County Cerebral Palsy Center, buys chicks for 4-H Club youngsters, donates to many youth agencies.

How Seawolves Lived Happy About Record; 60 Days Enough

(Editor's Note: Albert W. Durkee, 28, machinist's mate first class, of Acton, Mass., was aboard the atomic submarine Seawolf when she set a 60-day underwater record. Here is his story.)

By M. M. 1 Albert W. DURKEE
Written for The Associated Press

NEW LONDON, Conn. (AP) — We are a stick-together outfit on this ship. We live together well. And that's the main reason we were able to set the record.

It was fabulous the way the guys got along with not a bit of trouble. This crew has always been that way—we're a group of adults.

No Desire for Second Trip
It was a good trip. We're happy about setting the record, but I don't think any of us have a desire to do it again. Of course if it's broken by someone else, then that's coming up another channel.

We didn't get really excited about setting the record until we passed up the Skate's mark of 31 days, 5½ hours.

Then we really started trying to set a record that would last a while.

Before that, we passed a milestone without even knowing it. Several days went by before we realized that we had gone past Jules Verne's "20,000 Leagues Beneath the Sea."

Can't Talk About Time

But it isn't surprising we didn't notice it. Sometimes, when you're under the water and you can't tell night from day, you even get your sleeping hours mixed up. You think it's noon and it turns out to be midnight.

We worked a normal watch routine all the time—four hours on duty, eight off.

The first week under water seems to be always busy while you get your machinery all tuned up and the kinks ironed out.

Then after that first week is over, things begin to get into a routine where you can begin spending a lot of time on the hobbying bit.

Quick Job on Hobby
I tried to break into electronics this trip, something I had never done before. I got my instruction from some of our experts, my own field being mechanical.

I brought along a do-it-yourself kit to build a hi-fi amplifier. I thought it would be a tough job, but I got it done in five days and that left me without my hobby project for the rest of the trip.

So I turned to doing quite a bit of reading. And I got started with a little bit of leatherwork, making a knife case.

Painted Shipmates
We had two or three people who do real well at painting. They copied photographs of their shipmates' families and made oil portraits for them.

Leathercraft was big too. And there were a lot of games going—monopoly, cribbage, bingo, pinocle, chess, checkers.

We wore two monopoly sets to a frazzle. Dozens of decks of cards got so worn we had to throw them away.

A lot of the people aboard wrote a short letter every day or made a continuous letter. Then they swapped them with their correspondents when they got ashore. This is common amongst the mar-

Rockefeller Urges 8-Point Labor Plan

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP)—Republican Nelson A. Rockefeller moved his Upstate campaign into high gear today after proposing an eight-point labor program he would press if elected governor.

Rockefeller launched a three-day tour that called for appearances in at least 18 communities. It was by far the most ambitious itinerary he had undertaken since opening his campaign five weeks ago.

Appears on TV
Rockefeller put forth his labor program on a 15-minute statewide evening television program from New York City. During the day he campaigned through the crowded streets of the city's garment district, chatting and shaking hands.

The GOP candidate planned both to start and conclude his Upstate swing in Rochester.

Tours Upstate Areas
Today's schedule called for a town square speech in Newark, a speech indoors at Geneva, a street corner address in Seneca Falls, a luncheon and a factory tour in Auburn and two dinner speeches—in Cortland and Ithaca.

Wednesday he will visit Watkins Glen, Dundee, Penn Yan, Bath, Painted Post, Corning and Elmira. Thursday will take him to Owego, Binghamton, Johnson City, Palmyra and Rochester again.

Rockefeller outlined this labor program:

1. More jobs and better incomes by attracting new industries.

2. Consideration for workers displaced by automation.

3. Extension of unemployment insurance and similar benefits to firms employing only one individual.

4. An expanded program for rehabilitating disabled workers.

5. Explore the possibilities of transferring pension rights when changing jobs.

6. Continue hospitalization and group life insurance after retirement.

7. Advocate state legislation to help unions safeguard union funds.

8. Strengthen laws guaranteeing equality of employment "regardless of race, religion, national origin, ancestry, sex or age."

Rockefeller reiterated that he opposes the so-called right to work laws that would ban the union shop.

Economy Petition Case Coming Up Here Wednesday

The sufficiency of the Economy Party nominating petitions will be argued before Supreme Court Justice William Deekelman at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning at the court house. The outcome of the proceeding will determine whether or not the names of Economy Party candidates will appear on the ballot in November.

Commissioners at Odds
Nominating petitions were filed with the Ulster County Board of Elections on behalf of candidates both in the city and county. When Elections Commissioners Seymour Werbalowsky and Joseph Epstein met to review nominating petitions, there was a difference of opinion as to the sufficiency of the Economy Party petitions.

Commissioner Werbalowsky held that the petitions were defective in that they were not completely filled out as to ward, district and residence of persons signing the petitions. Commissioner Epstein held the petitions were sufficient.

Court Decision Sought
In view of the difference of opinion between the two commissioners, the petitions could not be certified and in order to determine the question of whether or not the petitions should be accepted, a judicial decision was sought. The matter was set down for Albany special term before Justice Deekelman and adjourned by consent to this week.

The nominating petitions in question will be reviewed by the court to ascertain whether or not they comply with the provisions of the law.

Red China Craft Fail To Attack

Action First Since Cease Fire Began

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — Nationalist Chinese antiaircraft guns on Quemoy punctuated the cease-fire in the Formosa Strait this afternoon, firing on eight Communist planes which flew over the offshore island.

The Nationalist Defense Ministry said the Red aircraft did not attack and were not hit by the Nationalist fire. They flew back toward the mainland.

The Quemoy antiaircraft batteries were the first guns to go off in the area since the Communists proclaimed a seven-day cease-fire, effective 40 hours before.

Observers in Taipei did not consider the Quemoy truce had necessarily been broken, since the earlier Communist announcement had spoken only of halting the artillery bombardment against besieged Quemoy and the neighboring Nationalist islands.

U. S. Continues Escort

U.S. Navy ships escorted more supplies to Quemoy today, again defying the Red demand that the cease-fire be accompanied by a halt to the American convoying.

The Reds had announced they would halt their attacks on the islands for a week beginning Sunday midnight if the Americans stopped escorting the Chinese Nationalist supply ships. But Monday and again today they offered no opposition to Nationalist convoys which still were shepherded by ships of the U.S. 7th Fleet to the three-mile limit off Quemoy.

Supplies also were dropped on Quemoy from Nationalist C46 transports.

Reports from Washington said it was expected there the American escort operations would be suspended in a day or two, and that the suspension would continue as long as the cease-fire did.

The Nationalists had virtually no expectation that the Reds would prolong the truce beyond the one-week period they set themselves. The local air was filled with predictions of major Communist military action when the period expired Sunday midnight — or even before.

Nationalist intelligence sources reported that the Communists had been commandeering motorized junks along the China coast from Hong Kong area northward for a possible invasion of the Quemoy's. The Reds were reported to have ordered that none of the crewmen should be under 25 years of age because only experienced men were wanted.

Reports to the Defense Ministry said since the halt in the artillery war, 1,500 workers had been seen repairing old gun emplacements and building new ones on the Communist island fortress of Amoy, six miles from Quemoy.

The Hudson Valley Council consists of four delegates from each of six counties; Columbia, Dutchess, Greene, Orange, Putnam and Ulster. The delegates and four alternates are to meet at or before Thursday's meeting. Mrs. Mary Bogardus of Fishkill is the secretary of the Council and Albert Kurtz of Kingston, the executive vice-president. Each county is to name a vice-president. The officers will constitute an executive committee.

The Council is a voluntary organization and any person interested in promoting the historic, scenic and cultural aspect of the Hudson Valley is invited to participate. It is hoped that at least one representative from each county appointed by the Temporary State Commission on Historic Observances will be a delegate. Any local or area group planning a celebration or event next year is invited. The possibility of publishing an attractive brochure for the six-county area is being studied.

Education Board Publishes Facts About School System

"Scholars and Cents," a 90-page publication outlining briefly the events and activities of the past school year and taking a look at the plans for the ensuing year, has been published by the Kingston Board of Education.

In a letter to "Mr. and Mrs. Resident, 100 Any Street," Assistant Superintendent of Schools Robert S. Macdonald describes briefly the purpose of the publication.

Aims Stressed

"The Kingston Board of Education and the staff of the Kingston schools join in the hope that this publication will answer many of your questions about the problems and aims of our educational system," Macdonald writes.

The financial statement for the school district for the year just ended is compared with the budget for the coming year and explanations are shown where unusual changes are planned.

There is a picture of the board, the superintendent and assistant superintendent.

Dr. Earl Soper is superintendent of schools. Robert Herzog is president of the board whose members serve without compensation as a public service. Members are: Robert B. O'Reilly, vice-president, Mrs. Vincent G. Connelly, George W. Schneider, Andrew T. Gilday, County Judge Louis G. Bruhn, Harold Darling and David Kline. Also in the picture is Chester C. Baltz Sr., whose term expired July 1.

President's Statement

President Herzog says in a statement:

"During these times of unsettled conditions one of our greatest investments in the future security of this country is the education and training being given to our youth of today—the citizens of tomorrow who will shape the destiny of generations to come. Your board of education feels that the educational program being offered to the students of the Kingston schools is the type of program that will equip our children to assume the responsibility that they must inherit in the years to come. It is our hope that with this issue of Scholars and Cents you will gain a better understanding of what is being done today for the youth of Kingston."

Dr. Soper points out in a brief survey of city schools that the local system is faced with the demands of an increasing school population and requests for a broad curriculum offering academic, vocational and life adjustment programs.

The New York State Thruway, the Kingston-Rhinecliff bridge and the new industrial growth in the area have brought more families and have accentuated these demands, he writes.

Dr. Soper remarked that the school enrollment increases come from a rising birth rate countrywide, an influx of new families to the area to secure industrial employment and requests from rural school districts for Kingston schools to provide education for junior-senior high school students.

Cites Expansion

"The Kingston Board of Education has worked diligently to meet these requirements in a practical manner. Four rooms have been added to the vocational building and a four-room addition is under construction to the rear of the high school auditorium. The auditorium is being refurbished and an improved system of heating and ventilating is being installed throughout the high school building.

"This addition will free two classrooms in the vocational building. The board of education plans to use them as science labs. This work is supervised by the building committee and Albert E. Milliken, architect. Some ten acres of property to the rear of the M.J.M. School has been acquired for future expansion when necessary. Plans are also being studied and consideration is being given to additions to School No. 5 and School No. 6, as well as the replacement of School No. 3 and No. 4 with a new elementary school at Hasbrouck Park.

"The board of education approved the Greater Kingston Area Consolidation and the signing of the necessary order is before the commissioner of education. School enrollment will soon exceed the space available and education of the rural children must be limited to the space available. If the Kingston area consolidates, the education of all children will be the responsibility of the board of education for the Greater Kingston Area."

The publication contains articles on collection of school taxes, KHS course offerings by Principal M. Clifford Miller, changes during the past year, budgeting procedure, financial report, statistical and state aid reports, educational accomplishments, guidance department, physical education department, audiovisual department, school calendar, publications by the board, staff of Kingston schools, new staff members, etc.

Recover Items In Kerhonkson Resort Burglary

A second batch of sheets, towels and canned goods taken in a late September burglary of a summer boarding house in Kerhonkson was recovered this morning by the Ulster County Sheriff's Office.

A quantity of these items was recovered last Saturday from an automobile in East Kingston.

Further investigation led the sheriff's department to a second cache of the loot taken in a break at the unoccupied Kerhonkson Lodge on the night of September 29. Location of this hiding place was not immediately disclosed.

County Investigator Arthur Brown said today that the total recovered is now 90 bath towels, 20 sheets and 50 cans and packages of food. With Brown this morning was Deputy Sheriff Charles McCullough.

Four men were arrested during the weekend on charges of burglary third degree. Their arrest followed an investigation by the sheriff's office and the Kingston Police Department in connection with an attempted break Friday night at the store of Mrs. Leona Schmidt, East Kingston.

The men also admitted an attempted break at Schwartz's Second Hand Store, 62 North Front Street where they hoped to get guns.

Committed to Ulster County Jail to await action of the grand jury were:

Clarence Jackson, 18, no home, now on probation; Raymond Marshall, 17, a cousin of Jackson, who resides on Willow Street, East Kingston.

Wilbur Schleede, 21 of Route 9W, Port Ewen.

Russell Miller, 45, of 17 West Strand.

Balloon Trip Off

ALAMOGORDO, N.M. (AP)—A series of last-minute postponements today delayed the scheduled flight of a young jet pilot who was to take a balloon ride into the stratosphere.

The flight of 25-year-old Lt. Clifton McClure was postponed until 8:30 a. m. early today then until 10 a. m. (MST) as Air Force officials charted high-altitude winds.

McClure had been sealed into a 3.9-foot metal capsule jammed full of instruments at 1:30 a. m. McClure has been dozing part inside the capsule of almost 100 per cent oxygen. There is almost no nitrogen in the gondola so that if there were accidental decompression at high altitude there would be no nitrogen in his blood to bubble and give him the so called "bends" that deep-water divers sometimes suffer.

The capsule atmosphere also is pressurized to equal about 24,000 feet altitude.

Memorial Service For Cantor Klein Thursday Night

A memorial service will be held Thursday at 8:30 p. m. in the synagogue of Congregation Agudas Achim, West Union Street, in memory of the late Cantor Michael Klein.

This was announced today by the congregation president, Joseph Epstein, who is chairman of a committee which is inviting the public to attend. "The service is for those of all faiths, who knew Cantor Klein," he said.

Rabbi H. Z. Rappaport of Congregation Agudas Achim will conduct the service and deliver the sermon. A New York cantor will be present for the program. Cantor Klein, 59, who died September 11, after serving five years at Agudas Achim. He came to Kingston from Israel, a land of refuge for him, following imprisonment in a concentration camp during World War 2 period.

"Despite the hardships he endured," said Chairman Epstein, "Cantor Klein never lost his faith in his fellow men. And, he was beloved by many in all religious faiths."

"That is the reason we are inviting the public to Thursday's memorial," he added.

Cantor Klein is survived by his widow, who resides at 69 Hasbrouck Avenue, where he died while writing a communication to a friend. Two daughters and a son by a former marriage also survive.

One of the great tragedies of his imprisonment in the concentration camp was seeing his first wife slain while he watched, chairman Epstein said.

Heading the committee with Chairman Epstein are Rabbi Rappaport, Raphael Klein and Isadore Handler. Twenty members of the congregation are also serving.

FREEMAN ADS BRING RESULTS

Think It Through

BITING THE HAND

When Nasser seized the Suez Canal and cut off Middle East oil, the Administration asked our oil companies to perform an emergency job—to deliver American oil to Western Europe to save it from disaster. The Government exempted the oil companies from certain provisions of the anti-trust laws so as to get fast results. The oil companies did what the Government requested. Western Europe got the oil despite Nasser's stoppage of Near East shipments.

MR. HUTTON

Now comes the double-cross. The Government has indicted some 26 leading oil companies, charging that by collusion they forced up crude oil and gasoline prices at that time. The NATIONAL REVIEW has stated, "The facts in the case have yet to reach the public." But on the face of it, oil and gasoline would have risen in price at the time of the Suez crisis as a natural result of the law of supply and demand.

If the Department of Justice hasn't any better evidence of collusion and price fixing during that period of scarcity, it had better call off its bureaucratic bloodhounds. Now the 26 oil companies have a taste of Uncle's gratitude, and should recall Mark Twain's words. When a friend had turned against him, he said, "I must have done the so-and-so a favor."

What has happened to Uncle? He used to be a nice fellow. The oil companies should place an ad in the press and demand an apology.

GM Still Hurt By Local Strikes

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors' car building operation was paralyzed by local strikes for a third work day today since GM's national contract agreement last Thursday with the United Auto Workers.

A few local settlements thus far sent back to work less than 10,000 of the 275,000 production workers idled in strikes across the country. Troubles elsewhere in the industry continued to impede the production of new 1959 model cars. Both Chrysler and Ford were affected. They, too, have agreed nationally with the UAW.

One Chrysler strike, that at the Twinsburg, Ohio, stamping plant affecting 1,000 employees, was settled overnight.

At the same time Chrysler's 4,000 office workers in Detroit who are represented by the UAW served notice they will strike Wednesday unless their contract demands are settled. The company and union had settled on all but Detroit office workers among the company's 75,000 employees.

Ford had no strike anywhere but a parts shortage interfered with its production. GM's only settlements sent back 4,000 workers at Lockport, N. Y., 2,500 at Dayton, Ohio, 2,000 at Saginaw, Mich., and 1,000 at Van-dalia, Ohio.

St. Bonaventure Lays Stone for Building

OLEAN, N. Y. (AP)—St. Bonaventure University started its second century today with the laying of the cornerstone for a one-million-dollar arts building.

The Most Rev. John Mark Gannon, archbishop of Erie, Pa., blessed the cornerstone for the 40-room building.

Mass was celebrated by the Most Rev. Amleto Giovanni Cicognani, apostolic delegate to the United States. The Most Rev. Joseph A. Burke, bishop of Buffalo, presided at the mass.

The university's Catholic Action Medal was presented to Paul V. Murray, co-founder and president of Mexico City College, Mexico.

Ave Favors Full-Time Chaplains for Prison

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — Gov. Harriman agreed today that the Westfield State Farm, a woman's prison, should have full-time rather than part-time Roman Catholic and Protestant chaplains.

The governor said in a letter to the Rt. Rev. Horace W. B. Donegan, Episcopal Bishop of New York, that arrangements had been made to put the chaplains on a full-time basis immediately.

Bishop Donegan wrote to the governor last month, requesting such a move.

Harriman's office said the two chaplains each had been paid $2,066 a year and would be raised to a full-time salary of $5,840. A spokesman said budget funds were available for the purpose. He said most prisons had full-time Protestant and Catholic chaplains and part-time Jewish chaplains.

Harriman said in his letter of reply that he agreed wholeheartedly with the move and was certain it would improve the correctional program at the institution.

Youth Is Given 50 to Life for Slaying Janitor

OSWEGO, N. Y. (AP) — A 20-year-old who fatally stabbed a school janitor has been sentenced to serve 50 years to life in prison. Peter J. Buttermann, 20, of Fulton, was sentenced Monday by Judge Don H. Stady of Oswego County Court.

Buttermann had pleaded guilty last month to a charge of second-degree murder in the death April 7 of Fred Maude in a Fulton school. Maude's wife said $80 was taken from his pockets.

Buttermann was arrested while on duty with an Air National Guard unit at Hancock Field, Syracuse.

Because he is under 21, Stacy directed that Buttermann be taken to the Elmira Reception Center at Elmira.

Says Profits Lower

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Milk Industry Foundation reports that consumers spent $6,900,000,000 for fluid milk and fresh milk products in 1957, but that dairymen got only $3,100,000,000 as their share.

The next largest portion, $1,400,000,000, went to milk company employees in salaries, commissions and wages.

The dairy industry organization said that after paying 132 million in taxes, milk dealers had a profit of 134 million. These profits were said to have been lower than in any year since 1952, measured on a dollar sales volume basis.

The remainder of the money spent by consumers went for raw materials, supplies, advertising, depreciation, insurance, bottles and cartons.

PUC Promises Early Answer On Rail Crash

NEWARK, N. J. (AP) — The Public Utility Commission is pouring over hundreds of pages of testimony today after ending its hearing into the so-far unexplained wreck of a Jersey Central commuter train Sept. 15.

When the hearings wound up on Monday, PUC Commissioners Ralph Fusco and D. Lane Po said all interested parties had a week to file any additional memoranda.

Jury to Probe Wreck

"We intend to file our report on the accident as soon as possible because our duty to the public demands it," said Fusco.

As the hearing ended, Hudson County Prosecutor Lawrence A. Whipple announced that a grand jury there would begin a separate probe into the wreck Friday to see if any negligence was involved.

While many of the mysteries of the wreck may be forever buried at the bottom of Newark Bay, there were several developments at the PUC hearing's final session. One was the report of a pathologist on the body of Lloyd F. Wilburn, of Red Bank, 63-year-old engineer of the doomed Jersey Central train. Dr. Angelo M. Gnassi, chief pathologist at the Jersey City medical center, said completed tests showed Wilburn, killed along with 47 others, died of drowning.

Doubts Health

Tests showed the engineer had an enlarged heart, the specialist said, but they could not reveal whether Wilburn had suffered a heart attack at any time before he drowned.

"This man was not a very healthy specimen," said Dr. Gnassi.

The fireman of the train—Peter Andrew—died of shock from injuries and was probably dead before the locomotive hit the water of the bay after running through a raised draw bridge.

Shots Hit Equipment

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y. (AP) —For the second time in two weeks, shots have been fired at construction equipment on the Niagara power project.

State police said rifle bullets punctured the radiators of two cranes Monday that were parked on the Tuscarora Indian Reservation. The cranes were not being used at the time.

The Tuscarora Indians oppose seizure by the state of 1,383 acres of their reservation for the $700,000,000 project. They have taken the case to the U. S. Supreme Court.

Two weeks ago rifle bullets were fired at two cranes and a parked car during the night. No one was hurt.

BETTER AND BETTER

From time to time American industrial civilization is assailed as seeming to put a premium on material things which don't last.

This is the land where we trade in cars, TV sets, vacuum cleaners, refrigerators and a host of other items for new models every few years. We even bounce around a lot from house to new house.

Our critics say we don't build for permanence, that we always have an eye on the "replacement market" as a means of keeping the economy flowing at high pace.

Certainly no businessman worth his salt sniffs distainfully at the idea of a good, steady replacement market. It gives his business a welcome element of stability.

But it is quite shortsighted and unfair to assert that because our economy is rooted in constant change that we therefore build shabbily. Shoddy producers there are, and always have been. But they are a tiny minority.

The fact is, as the magazine Business Week currently notes that a powerful generating force behind this continual change is a "willingness—even eagerness—to scrap something perfectly good in order to get something better."

One of the reasons we are world industrial leaders is that we never rest with what we have but are always seeking to improve our plant, our processes and our products. Even before the great Russian challenge, we understood that to be content with what we had just because it was "good" was to court economic stagnation. It's a funny thing that this approach draws criticism in the realm of peacetime industry but is considered vital in the defense field.

With weapons, the premium is always upon change to incorporate the latest advances. There is great fear of "freezing" production of obsolete models which could give a more progressive enemy crucial advantage.

The principle of steady change to turn out better and better products obviously gives vibrant life to the whole fabric of our economy.

Sticking to it is absolutely essential if we are to exert leadership in both the goods of peacetime living and the weapons of defense.

Most Democrats are content to blame the GOP for letting the recession occur, but Harry Truman says they started it deliberately. Harry's always one jump ahead of other party stalwarts—even though the jump is sometimes into the mud.

BILLS AT FLOOD TIDE

The 82nd Congress which met in 1951 and 1952, had before it a total of 14,164 bills and resolutions. These resulted in the enactment of 594 new laws. The 85th Congress enacted 936 new laws. These were the fruit of a record number of bills and resolutions—a total of 20,705—introduced during its two sessions.

The number of bills and resolutions submitted for consideration by the national legislature is startling enough in itself. The swift increase demands that careful thought be given the whole matter of grist for the congressional mill.

No man, confronted by thousands of bills and resolutions on the widest range of subjects, can hope to form a soundly based judgment as to the merits of each one. That is the basic reason for the committee system, which to some extent winnows the grain. A relatively small number of measures come to a vote on the floor.

Even that relatively small number is actually very large, however. More than 900 bills were passed in the 1957 and 1958 sessions, which means that members of Congress were called upon to pass judgment on a far greater number. Dependence on the informed, though often biased, opinions of committee members has to be heavy.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY
THE RIGHT TO VOTE

Each year, about this time, the mail fills with political circulars, mimeographed letters and other effluvia designed to get the citizen to go to the polls to vote for candidates for various offices. The point generally made is that to vote is a duty. Actually, in our system of government, it is a right to be exercised or not to be exercised by freedom of choice.

One of these circulars comes from Sidney Shore, whom I do not know, on the stationery of Vernon Pope, whom I also do not know. The thing looks like a personal letter done on an electric typewriter. But close scrutiny indicates that it is a circular from the American Heritage Foundation.

This particular letter has to do with two objectives: one is to get the citizens to vote; the other is to get them to contribute to campaign funds. The latter objective is designed "to free candidates and office holders from the grip of 'special interests' . . ."—a worthy cause, if accomplishable.

The first part of the problem, getting the citizen out to vote, in some instances presents an insurmountable handicap because there is no one to vote for. The guiding principle of many is to accept the lesser of two evils, which is strictly immoral. It is like making a choice between burglary and murder. Those whose consciences permit them to make a choice between the lesser of two evils have an easy time of it.

But what do you do if both candidates are negative human beings, or if one is a bum and the other a crook, or if one is subversive and the other a moron?

The man who is a partisan has no problem. He votes the straight party ticket, come what may. He never deviates from that because his father never did or for other pertinent reasons. But suppose a voter is choosy. Let us say that he will not vote for a divorced man or an alcoholic or an atheist or a bankrupt. Suppose he has prejudices or convictions about such matters. What does he do?

In a day or two, I shall go about finding out who is running for member of the House of Representatives in my district. At present, I do not know. I have not heard. There must be a Republican and a Democrat and I could vote for one or the other without worrying about his name or ability or qualifications on the ground that the party can do no wrong. Such a person can even get pleasure out of voting for a nameless, faceless candidate because that it what the Boss wants and who can give greater pleasure than to please the Boss?

I cannot vote that way. I need to know something about what I am doing as a citizen. I cannot just vote for Harry McGluck, an ambulance chasing lawyer who needs a job to support his family and who has served the party valiantly for a quarter of a century. Professor Arthur Schlesinger, Jr., of Harvard, apparently thinks that if the Democrats and Republicans nominated Fry League eggheads, it would solve all problems. But that, too, does not mean representative government which requires a variety of persons in Congress.

Whenever matters of conscience are involved, voting becomes difficult under our system of selecting candidates. And yet, what can be done about getting good candidates? I have watched the effort to get decent candidates for half a century and have seen how futile the efforts have been. As a child, I heard about how boss-selected officeholders would be driven out. Then came the direct primaries and they were to solve all problems. They solved no problems. As a matter of fact, it is hard to decide whether public officials today, on average, are better or worse than half a century ago—they look worse.

So boom-boom for voting will not solve the problem of getting good candidates. What we require is someone to vote for. In many states, there is really no one to vote for. If an election is freedom of choice, it ought to be a choice between two men, who, in their own communities, represent some degree of distinction beyond astute public relations or political venality. In many areas, in the present election, that is not so. The candidates are neither distinguished nor representative.

B-12 Is New Vitamin Helping To Fight Pernicious Anemia

BY EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.
Written for NEA Service

It is almost impossible to keep up with the growth of knowledge about vitamins. For one thing, new ones keep being discovered. Among the relatively new ones is vitamin B12. This vitamin is essential for the normal action of blood formation by the bone marrow and the health of the nervous system.

So far one of the important uses of vitamin B-12 seems to be for pernicious anemia. This is the form of anemia which 40 years ago was almost fatal in the long run, but which for many years has been successfully treated in most cases with liver preparations.

Now vitamin B-12 (which thanks to our scientists, is now available in pure crystalline form) seems to be helpful in some advanced cases with nerve changes which previously resisted any known form of treatment.

Several years ago there was a great deal of interest in the possibility that vitamin B-12 might stimulate growth. It was actually tried on a number of children who had not grown normally and some of them appeared to speed up.

However, so far as I am aware, it is not now thought that vitamin B-12 plays any important part in this respect and is not recommended for such purposes.

Actually, it appears that the deficiency of vitamin B-12 rarely exists unless there is some associated trouble with the stomach or digestive tract elsewhere. This is probably because such disturbances interfere with absorption of the vitamin.

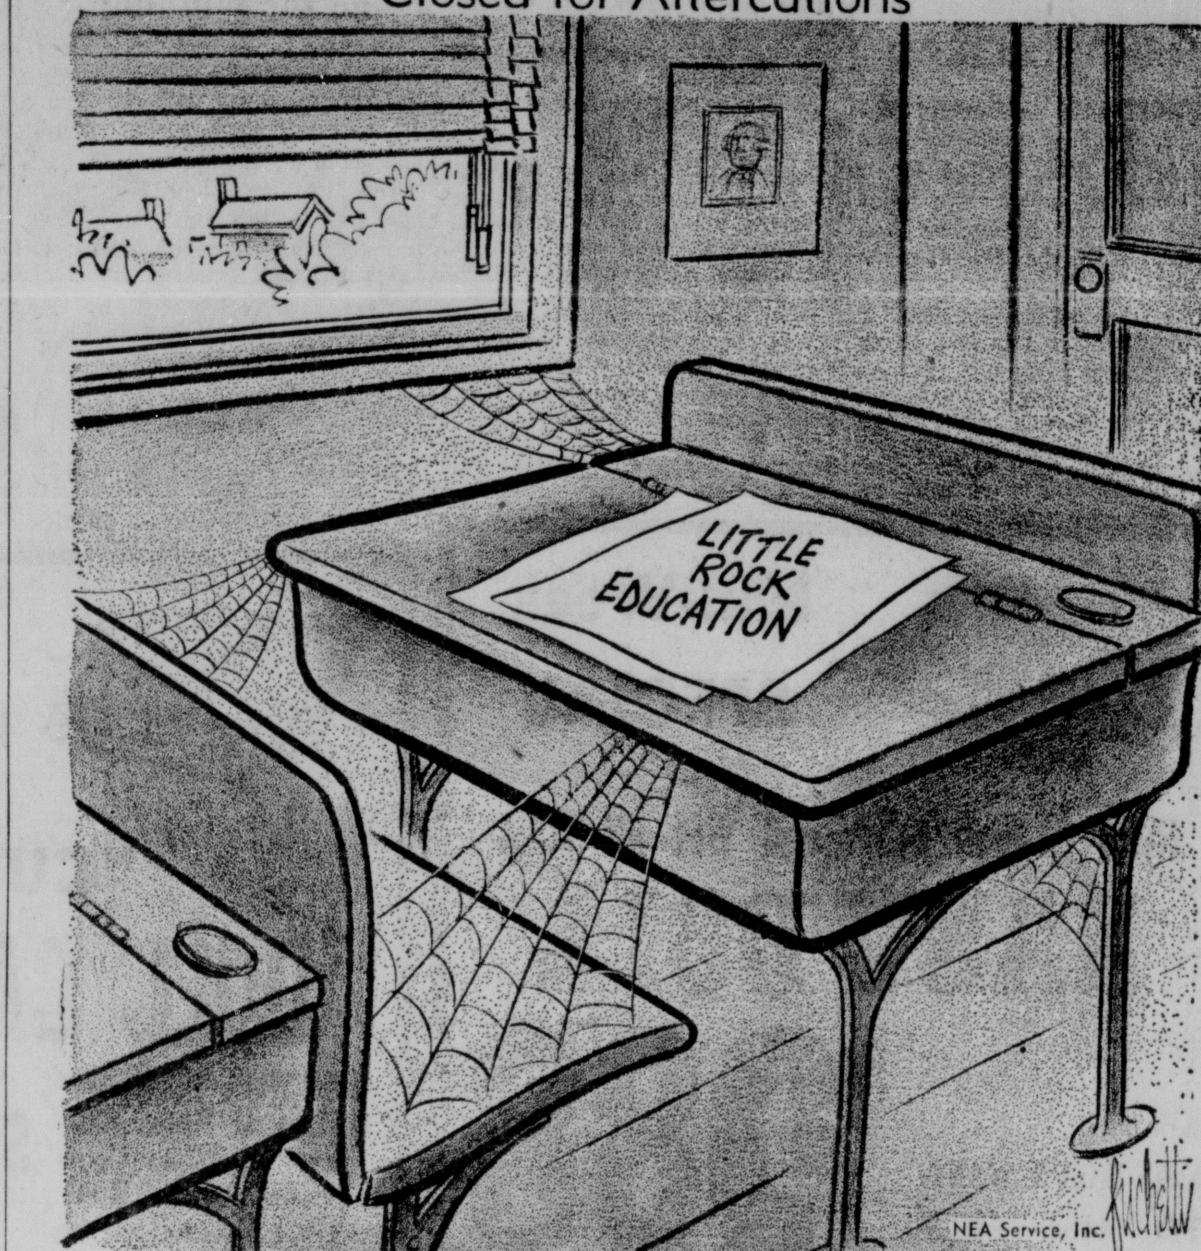

However, large quantities of vitamin B-12 taken by mouth will usually result in enough absorption and it is probably in some such manner that vitamin B-12 works favorably in pernicious anemia.

This vitamin is unusual in another respect. It contains a metal known as cobalt which is found almost exclusively in animal foods. It can be obtained commercially from the growth of certain bacteria. Cud-chewing animals obtain the vitamin from bacteria which they have constantly in the "fore" stomach.

this situation. Arbitrary restraint as to the number of measures that may be submitted would not be satisfactory. It has been proposed that the numerical size of Congress be increased, but that probably would result in even more submissions of legislative proposals.

If the trends continues, the 86th Congress will have to contend with some 22,000 or more bills and resolutions. The lawmakers themselves should be thinking hard about this problem. It may be that the only chance of a solution lies in their using individual restraint and applying the test: Is this bill necessary?

Washington News

WASHINGTON, (NEA)—A knotty security problem confronted the State Department when the question arose of permitting two Russian horses to enter the big International Race At Laurel this Nov. 11. It was discovered that the Laurel club house and grandstand are just inside the boundary of the permissible area around Washington in which Russians can move freely.

But the turns and backstretch of the track itself are in the area restricted to them. The possibility of having a couple of mounted FBI agents accompany the Russian jocks and their steeds through the race was quickly rejected.

Mention of the FBI in the discussion probably called attention to the fact that J. Edgar Hoover would very likely be a spectator, since he is one of the most avid horse race fans in the area. This realization may have broken the deadlock on the matter.

It was finally decided that, inasmuch as the Red jockeys would probably be too busy on the backstretch to do much espionage, it would be all right to ignore the regulation.

THE RUSSIANS love sports and love to gamble. But unlike so many embassy people here, they have avoided the many race tracks in nearby Maryland. Apparently the word was out at the Soviet Embassy not to go to the tracks for betting purposes for fear of making the wrong impression on the comrades back home.

This policy has now been changed and Russians will at least be permitted to see their own horses run in the International Race at Laurel.

U. S. AMBASSADOR to Switzerland Henry J. Taylor decided recently to introduce U. S. country-style cooking to European party-goers. At a big American Embassy shindig in Bern, he served fried chicken which everybody ate with his fingers.

The dish turned out to be such a success that guests gobbled up more than 250 chickens. In fact, it's reported that U. S. fried chicken is becoming popular all over Switzerland and that the country has started a full-scale poultry promotion project.

But party-goers here doubt that the fad will spread to the Swiss Embassy in Washington. For years Swiss Ambassador Henry de Torrente's parties have been famous for their dignified atmosphere and the best cold roast beef in town.

THE FRENCH EMBASSY has unleashed another outstanding hostess for the winter social season here. She's the wife of Col. Henry Rubillon du Lattay, the French assistant military attache. They have just come from two years in hectic Algeria where he commanded troops in the field.

Not only in Simone du Lattay a great cook, she's also a tremendous gardener. The couple moved into a house with a yard overgrown with weeds, and in two weeks she had it looking like a showplace with some clever transplanting.

Their favorite type of entertaining is small dinner parties. Their first guest of honor was Rear Adm. David J. "Red" Welsh. Adm. Welsh and Colonel du Lattay were classmates at the Army's Command and General Staff College at Ft. Leavenworth, Kan. The guests were most interested in some of the gruesome combat experiences that the colonel had undergone in Algeria.

AT A LUNCHEON at the Women's National Press Club the other day, President Lee Walsh was startled when the guest of honor stood up before she had finished introducing him. Not being accustomed to the

Letters Sent by Lawyers Dispute High Court Ruling

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6 — Learned lawyers in different parts of the country, some of them the authors of books on constitutional law, are writing in to this correspondent raising a significant question. In substance, it is whether the justices of the Supreme Court of the United States have themselves been true to their oaths to support the Constitution.

It certainly is novel for the Supreme Court justices, as they did in a written opinion on Sept. 29, to be accusing the governors of states and the state legislatures of disregarding their oaths and of refusing to "obey" Federal court orders because they merely try to test out new laws to get around court rulings—something Congress itself has frequently done. Here is an extract from one letter:

"The opinion rendered by the Supreme Court on Sept. 29 emphasizes that, under Article VI, the Constitution is the 'supreme law of the land' and that, in Marbury v. Madison, the principle is firmly established that it is the duty of the judicial department to say what the law is. It is further pointed out in the opinion of Sept. 29 that, under Article VI, Section 3, every legislator and executive and judicial officer is solemnly committed by oath to support this Constitution, presumably as construed by the Supreme Court.

"When six of the present justices of the Supreme Court took the oath of office to support and defend the Constitution of the United States against all enemies, foreign and domestic, the 'supreme law of the land' under Plessy v. Ferguson was that separate but equal facilities were in compliance with the Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution.

"Are the justices of the Supreme Court of the United States also bound by their oaths to support the Constitution as previously interpreted by the Supreme Court? If not, what exempts them from the binding force of their oaths of office?"

Cites 1927 Decision
Another letter points to the fact that in 1927 the Supreme Court, headed by Chief Justice Taft and including such notable justices as Oliver Wendell Holmes, Louis D. Brandeis and Harlan Fiske Stone, in a unanimous opinion, known as "Gong Lum v. Rice," said:

"The question here is whether a Chinese citizen of the United States is denied equal protection of the laws when he is classified among the colored races and furnished facilities for education equal to that offered to all, whether white, brown, yellow or black.

"Were this a new question, it would call for very full arguments were served by Mrs. John Gargulio.

Mrs. Paul Frampton gave a talk illustrated by pictures on architecture, and Mrs. W. T. Lais told of the advantages of Cotter College at the meeting of Chapter A, PEO Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Gordon Wilcox.

Cotter College is supported by the PEO and is a junior college. There were 19 members present, and at the tea table Mrs. Mildred Percy, the president, and Mrs. Andrew W. Lent poured.

Attending the meeting of the Council of Church Women Friday in Poughkeepsie were Mrs. Robert Oliver, Mrs. Adrian Valk, Mrs. Paul Frampton, Mrs. Mildred Percy, Mrs. Dominic Pape, Mrs. Thurlow Weed Jr., Mrs. A. W. Lent. The sessions were in the Reformed Church, Poughkeepsie.

Even Cynical Deeply Moved

Frail Pope Towers as Giant In Rough Periods for World

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—The past two decades have been among the most terrifying periods in mankind's recorded history.

And throughout those fearful years, the frail figure of the man in the Vatican towered as that of a giant on the side of those in the world who believed in the fundamental decency and dignity of the human being.

It mattered little what your religion might have been. You would have been a rarity if you had been able to come away from the presence of Pope Pius XII without the conviction that you had been in the presence of greatness.

Feelings of Awe

Uncounted thousands over the past two decades stood in the presence of this man and heard his voice. He never spared himself the ordeals of innumerable audiences.

Hundreds of thousands watched with feelings of awe as he raised his arms slowly and majestically in benediction, while a thunderous roar of ovation swelled from the multitudes massed in St. Peter's Square.

Those who saw him in private audiences, no matter what their creed, almost invariably reported they had come away feeling the meeting had been a rich spiritual experience.

Even the most cynical and wordly of his visitors confessed themselves deeply moved.

Great Spiritual Power

Perhaps it was the impression they received that in this spare, physically fragile figure there was a reserve of enormous spiritual power.

Perhaps they saw the reflection of such power in his eyes—black, dancing, alert eyes that seemed to pierce through a man's exterior and look into his very soul.

Perhaps it was that they could sense the man's deep humility amid the ancient splendor surrounding the Roman Catholic Church, or that they could read in that sad, ascetic face a deep compassion for all men.

Labors Only for Peace

I met Pope Pius XII on several occasions and have had impressions like these. I know of nobody who has met him who has not come away with similar feelings.

One suddenly remembered, in his presence, that in an age which saw the most destructive war of all history, here was a man who spoke and labored only for peace. One would remember that in an era which witnessed incredibly cruel scourges at the hands of ruthless dictators, here was a voice to speak out fearlessly for the conscience of mankind.

You took the slender hand and felt the inner strength of the man. You heard the voice, almost a whisper, pronounce the quiet words of blessing.

You heard him say: "Tell the people of your great country that our prayers are with them."

You felt, somehow, those prayers would be answered.

N.Y., Pennsy to Join In Pollution Fight

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP)—New York and Pennsylvania will join again in trying to stop pollution in a stream that crosses state boundaries. This time it's the Chemung River.

The Chemung originates in New York and flows into the Susquehanna River south of Sayre in Bradford County. The two states will try to determine the source of pollution and attempt to control it.

Dr. C. L. Wilbur Jr., Pennsylvania secretary of health, said Monday the study was the "latest example of the fact that—when it comes to keeping streams full of pollution—neighboring communities and states must share responsibilities."

Waters sampled from the Chemung will be collected simultaneously by sanitary engineers from both states. The results will be exchanged and analyzed.

Similar studies already are underway involving the Allegheny, Susquehanna and other rivers.

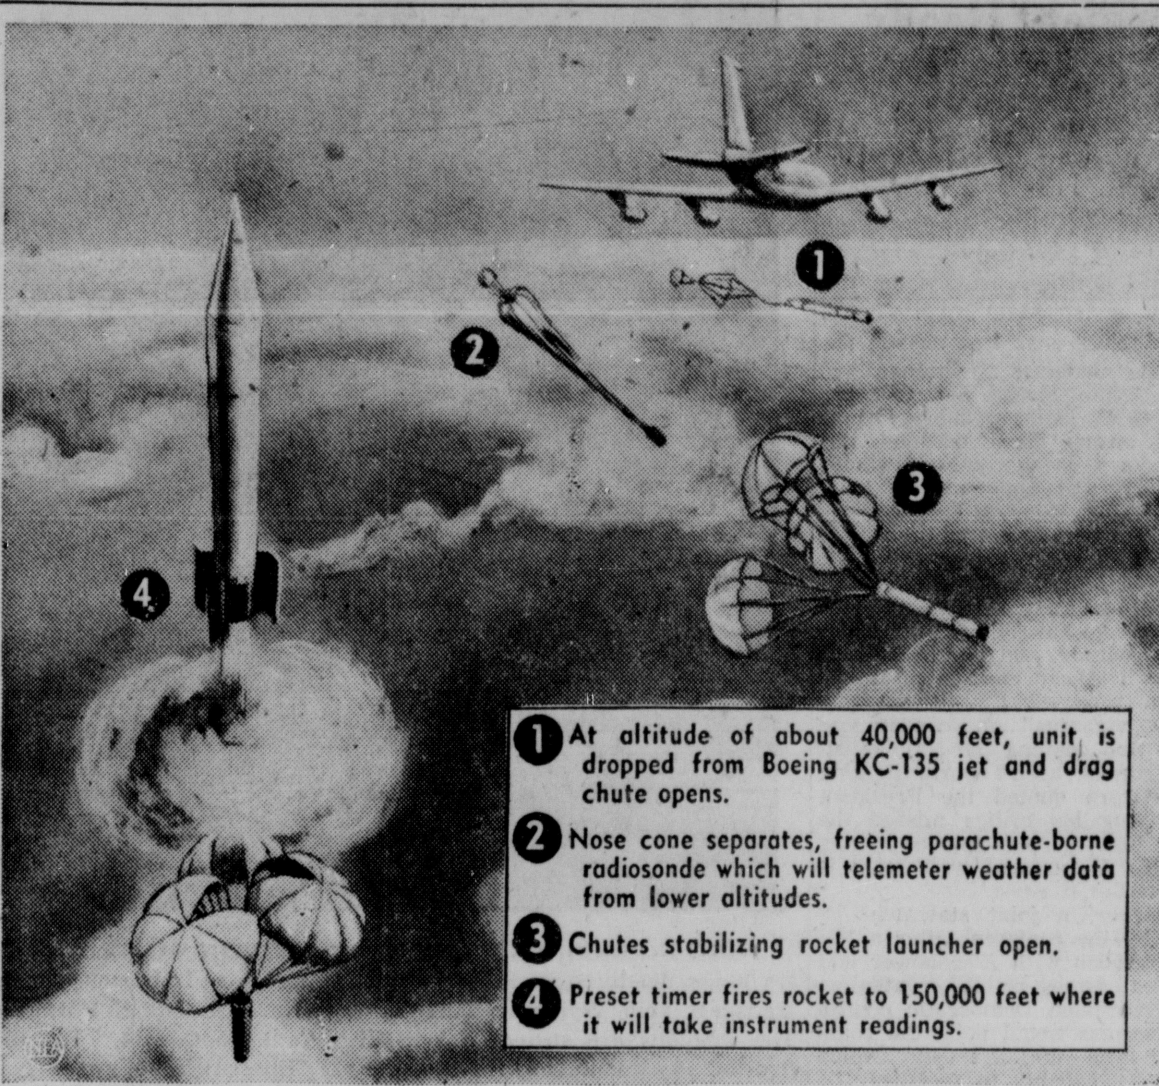

No Watch Dog, This

CHICAGO (AP)—Francis, a cocker spaniel, was a watch dog, his master believed.

So when Russell Kepple, 40, and his wife Agnes went out to look for a new home, they left Francis to keep watch in their apartment.

When they got home, Kepple told police, their apartment was in a mess. Missing was a coin collection, jewelry and appliances, which Kepple valued at $1,655.

Francis, he said, was asleep in the kitchen.

Warrants Given For 24 Sought In Frauds Case

HUDSON FALLS, N. Y. (AP)—Warrants have been issued for about 24 persons in connection with an investigation into a ring that allegedly dealt in automobile insurance frauds.

The bench warrants were issued after a Washington County grand jury returned 40 sealed indictments Monday in the case.

Dist. Atty. John A. Leary said he expected those sought all would be in custody before the end of the week. A few are reported already in custody.

The names of the persons involved and the charges against them will not be revealed until the indictments are opened in court.

Leary said the ring bilked insurance companies of between $50,000 and $60,000.

Ring members filed fake accident reports and damage claims, Leary said. In many cases, he added, they changed identification numbers and used cars that had been damaged in previous accidents.

Only one insurance adjuster was involved, Leary said.

The investigation was launched last April. More than 50 persons testified before the grand jury.

To Clear Both Tracks

BATAVIA, N. Y. (AP)—The Lehigh Valley Railroad says the wreckage of a derailed freight train will probably be cleared from both tracks of its main line by late today.

One track was opened Monday night after ten cars of a 139-car freight jumped the tracks Monday morning six miles from the Genesee County community. No one was injured.

The freight was running from Buffalo to Easton, Pa. Officials said an overheated axle caused the pileup.

COMB HEMP: This word, which means to tease, has an interesting background. It originally meant to comb hemp or wool. In this action the hemp had to be pulled apart with an instrument called a "hackle". In the 16th century the pulling apart of the hemp by the hackle was figuratively compared to the action of someone passing "cutting" remarks or "heckling".

Further Study Is Promised Keating On Drum Future

WASHINGTON (AP)—The White House has promised Rep. Kenneth B. Keating it will take a further look at the possibility of making Camp Drum, N. Y., a permanent installation.

Keating, running for the U. S. Senate, was among Republican candidates who conferred Monday with President Eisenhower on chances in the elections next month.

Keating then talked with Wilton B. Persons, who recently succeeded Sherman Adams as Eisenhower's top assistant. Keating said Persons assured him he would look into the situation at the big summer training base.

Rep. Clarence B. Kilburn long has sought to have the Army establish a permanent cadre of 1,500 men at Camp Drum, which is outside Watertown.

The Army each spring transfers that number of men to the camp from Ft. Devens, Mass., to ready Drum for the annual summer training of reserve and National Guard troops.

Former Attorney For Ulster Town Is GOP Speaker

LOUIS A. DIDONNA

Former attorney for the town of Ulster, Louis A. DiDonna will be the principal speaker at a meeting of the Ulster County Women's Republican Club on Thursday at 8 p. m. at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

DiDonna served the town of Ulster as its attorney for three years and resigned in 1957. He was appointed an assistant to State Attorney General Louis J. Lefkowitz on December 4, 1957 and was assigned to the litigation and claims bureau in the Albany office of the State Department of Law.

He will discuss incumbent Lefkowitz' campaign for attorney general and other political issues when he speaks to the GOP women.

A graduate of Kingston High School, Fordham University and Fordham Law School, DiDonna served as counsel to Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson, Ulster County Republican Committee chairman, for two years.

Active in the general practice of law in this city since 1951, DiDonna served two years in the Navy and while overseas was with the Judge Advocate Section, Northern Area Command in Frankfurt, Germany.

During his term as counsel to the town of Ulster, he was active as attorney on meetings of the Ulster Water District, planning board and zoning commission. He helped organize the Town of Ulster Kiwanis Club in 1955 and a year later was instrumental in the formation of the Ulster Republican Club of which he is a director.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market milled unevenly in active trading near its record high early this afternoon.

Most changes were narrow. Gains and losses of leading stocks were held generally within a 1-point range.

The market was at the crest of a three-day advance to historic peaks. Considerable profit taking and switching was evident.

Coppers were higher at the start but turned mixed by mid-session. A tightened supply has resulted from strikes at mines in Rhodesia and Canada leading to predictions of a further price boost.

Aircraft took losses. American Motors was strong. Building materials showed some plus signs. Selected issues made fair progress.

The ticker tape was late five minutes at the opening. Magma, an outstanding gainer lately, was clipped for more than a 1-point loss. Kennecott dropped about a point and Anaconda a fraction.

Phelps Dodge held a fractional gain. Homestake and International Nickel were slight losers.

American Motors rose about a point. Ford eased. Other motor stocks were about unchanged.

Brunswick-Balke and U.S. Gypsum drew buying and each rose more than a point. Minute Maid was active and higher by a sizable fraction.

Lockheed dropped a point as the company's chairman said orders for Electra turboprop transports are short of the firm's goal. Boeing and Douglas Aircraft also were off about a point each.

U.S. Steel and American Telephone took fractional losses. Eastman Kodak and Air Reduction were off around a point.

Gains were posted by Raytheon, Sperry Rand, Allied Chemical, Texas Co., Illinois Central and American Smelting.

Long-range U. S. government bonds edged higher.

President Ready For Critics of Formosa Policy

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower apparently is eager to lay his prestige heavily on the line in a stepped-up congressional campaign he says may decide the fate of "moderate government."

His White House pep meeting with GOP leaders Monday produced strong signs that he will bear down on the twin issues of socialism and higher taxes in a forthcoming chin-up tour to stir up Republican voters.

At the same time, he made it clear he is ready to take on all Democratic critics of the manner in which he has handled the crisis over Quemoy and Matsu.

GOP National Chairman Meade Alcorn reported Eisenhower was "very vigorous" in condemning those who contend the Nationalist-held islands aren't worth fighting for. Alcorn quoted the President as saying his critics missed the point that the principle of halting possible Communist aggression is involved.

However, a joint statement issued by the conferees after a 2 1/2-hour session with Eisenhower laid heaviest stress on the contention that continued Democratic control of Congress would point the country down the left lane which leads inescapably to socialism.

U.S. Takes Time On Convoy Halt

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States, taking its time, is expected within a day or two to expect conveying Nationalist Chinese supply ships in the Formosa Strait.

The order to the U.S. 7th Fleet is to be based on the absence of Communist shelling — not on the condition laid down in Red China's offer Sunday to cease firing for one week provided U. S. convoy operations halted.

Officials drew that fine line of distinction to emphasize two points:

1. That Red China started the trouble with six weeks of almost continuous bombardment of Quemoy, and could ease tensions any time, without conditions, simply by stopping the shooting.

2. That U.S. conveying has been strictly in international waters, and nobody tells the United States what to do on the high seas.

Officials were gratified at the Red Chinese offer. But they were not unaware that it contained a number of diplomatic-propaganda hooks.

A determination to avoid getting snagged on any of them explained why the United States was taking its own good time about ordering a suspension of the convoy.

That was clear in a State Department statement welcoming the Peiping bid. Noting that no firing would mean "no further necessity for the convoy," the statement said: "This question is being given careful consideration."

With the Dow-Jones Industrial averages comfortably through 500, and with myriads of investors gleefully viewing their large profits, a question that constantly arises is: "Should I take some of them?" I doubt if any question is more often asked today by stockholders than this one.

Far too few people with stocks have a well-defined, carefully-thought security management policy. And it is in times like these that one is greatly needed.

To establish one, a further question should be asked: "What are sound common stocks for?"

Are they instruments of finance bought for investment to place the owners dependable income and to participate in economic growth?

Or are they equities that are to be bought and sold for profit even as merchants buy and sell goods?

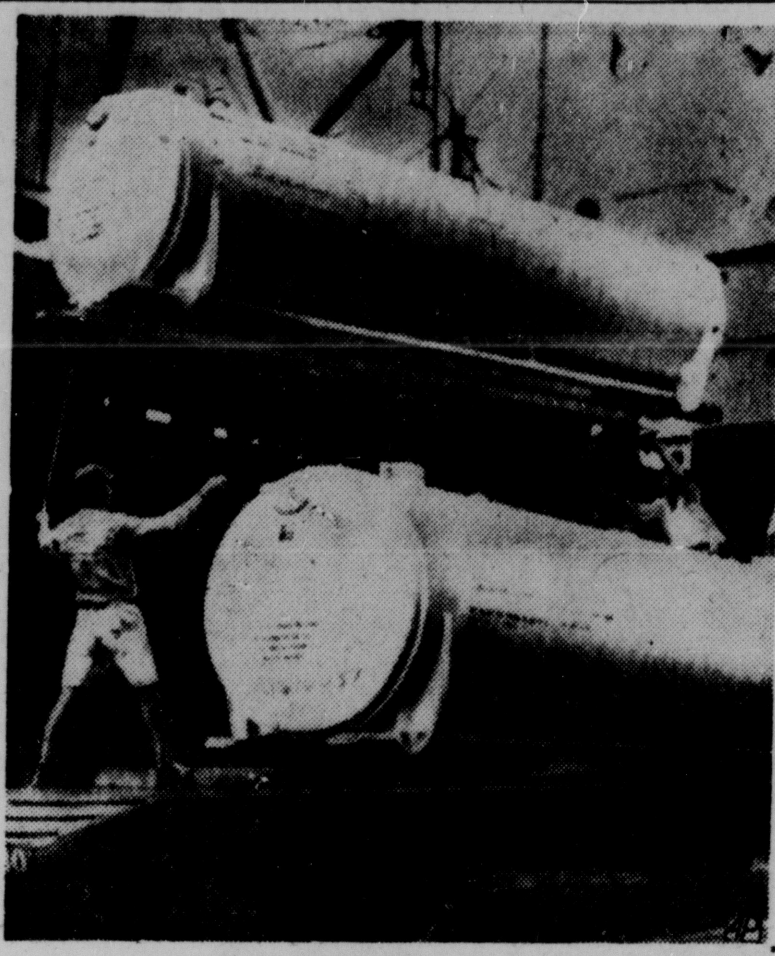

Between these two answers lies a line of demarcation which differentiates the investor from the speculator. With most people this line can and should be sharply drawn. Investors who do not need to take profits for other capital needs should keep their stocks.

lives of millions of heads of families, October of 1958 is a splendid time for many young fathers who are under-insured to re-vamp their finances. Long-term government 3s are selling for 89.

Here is a young sales executive, age 30, who has had colossal stock market luck. The higher stock prices go, the less he thinks about insurance. Stock brokers of his acquaintance agree with his point of view and insurance salesmen can't get to first base with him.

Yet today he, too, should cash in $25,000 profits, buy $30,000 long term 3 per cent government bonds and with this $900 a year income buy himself a $50,000 life insurance policy. It would tremendously strengthen his entire financial foundation.

A head waiter in one of New York City's leading hotels has an incongruous financial program. Successful speculation has gone to his head.

He owns many "cats and dogs," as inferior grade securities are sometimes called. He has no savings account. He carries only $2,000 of insurance. His consumer credit debt is around $3,000. Yet his tips at the hotel are large because he is a favorite with many top executives and professional men.

A complete reorganization of his financial life should be undertaken at once. His consumer debt obligation should be paid in full. Hock buying should stop. He should take out a substantial 25-year endowment policy (he is 40). He should put $2,000 in a savings bank. And his risky speculative stock market activities should be drastically curtailed.

He represents a large class of speculators who should take profits to set their own financial houses in order.

Plattekill Board Approves Bingo For Nov. 4 Ballot

A resolution to place the question of legalizing the playing of bingo games in the Town of Plattekill on the ballot in the November 4 elections was approved by the Plattekill Town Board following a public hearing Monday night in Hasbrouck Memorial Hall, Modena.

No objections were voiced from among the small gathering. Town Supervisor Howard Simpson presided.

Town Clerk Albert R. Carpenter told The Freeman today that it was too late to place the bingo question on the machine ballot. However, a paper ballot will be provided to all Plattekill voters at the November polls.

Four of Ulster County's five incorporated villages have approved bingo in recent votes—Ellenville, New Paltz, Rosendale and Saugerties.

Townships which have approved bingo include Saugerties, Ulster, Esopus, Rosendale, Lloyd, Wawarsing and Shandaken. Town of Woodstock defeated the measure 170 to 70 in a special August vote.

The bingo proposition will also be on the City of Kingston ballot in the November elections.

Roy Rogers Hosts Local 'Pards'

1,000 IBM Youngsters Hit Rodeo Trail Riding Mile-Long Caravan

AMONG THE THRILLED KIDDIES meeting Roy Rogers personally were (front row, 3rd from left) Gary Aidala, 11, of 51 Harding Avenue, Kingston; Gary L. Port, 11, of West Hurley; (standing, rear, from left) Miss Joan M. Filkins, of Highland; Miss Ethel M. Hornbeck, Kingston IBM Club director of Mt. Marion; Barbara A. Bartsch, 10, of West Hurley; James L. Hogan Jr., 11, of 62 Wrentham Street, Kingston; Jean C. Port, 9, of West Hurley, and of course, cowboy star Roy Rogers.

Approximately 1,000 Kingston area youngsters rode a mile of buses Saturday to meet Roy Rogers at the end of a 100-mile trail.

The children, nine-to-17-year-old junior and intermediate members of the Kingston IBM Recreation Association traveled to Madison Square Garden to attend the 33rd Annual World Championship Rodeo.

The day's outing was sponsored by the Kingston IBM Club and the children were chaperoned by 180 IBM Club Committee and club members.

The thrill of a lifetime froze some of the youngsters with awe and surprise at 3 p. m. when they were beckoned backstage at intermission to meet their cowboy hero, Roy Rogers. The lucky youngsters were introduced by Kingston IBM Director Ethel Hornbeck, to the cowboy star.

The local delegation was greeted by the star of screen, television, radio and records during the two-hour rodeo when he stopped the show to give a special welcome to "The 1,000 Children from Kingston, N. Y. who traveled a hundred miles to see the rodeo and the final season's appearance of Trigger."

The famous western star then told the audience at the rodeo that the 25-year-old "Wonder Horse" is being retired this year to be replaced by Trigger, Jr., another palomino.

More than 500 Brahma bulls and bucking broncos are featured in the gala rodeo production which ends its run October 13th.

Cowboy clowns defying death as they distracted enraged broncos and bulls to rescue thrown riders, spectacular feats of horsemanship by top Western riders and a colorful horseback parade were but some of the highlights that drew shrieks of delight from the local children.

Box lunches prepared by the IBM plant Cafeteria Friday night and containing 2,200 ham and cheese sandwiches, milk, apples and cookies were distributed before the show began.

The buses left IBM Kingston at 11:30 a. m., returning to the plant at 8 p. m.

Employment Up During August

NEW YORK (AP)—New York State employment figures for August show a slight increase over July, but are down five per cent from August a year ago.

State Industrial Commissioner Isador Lubin issued a report Monday showing that 6,015,000 persons were employed in New York in August. This was 32,000 more than in July.

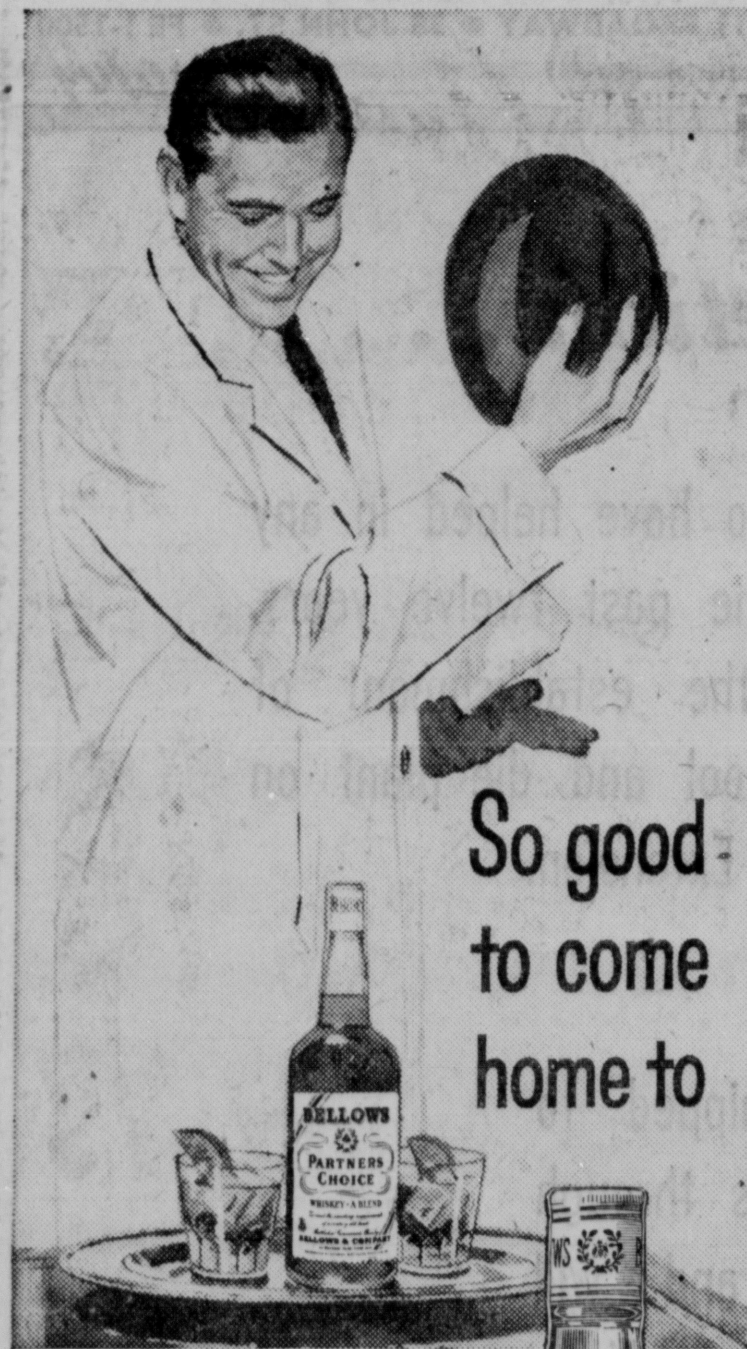

Lubin said the increase was the smallest in an August—usually a month in which business picks up—since 1933 and the second smallest since compilation of figures of this type began in 1947.

Nine of the 20 manufacturing categories listed in the Department of Labor report showed the smallest August increases in 11 years. The rubber industry reported fewer persons working in August than in any previous month since 1947.

The number of workers employed in New York City increased by 25,000 from July to August, chiefly because of increased employment in the apparel industry and miscellaneous manufacturing. However, the August figure was two per cent less than in the same month last year.

Vice Raid Nets Women in Gotham

NEW YORK (AP)—Plainclothes police raided a top-floor apartment on the fashionable East Side Monday night and arrested two women whose telephone they had tapped. The women, Holly Lee Jacobson, 36, and Rosemarie Broshier, 26, both brunettes, were booked on charges of loitering for prostitution. The vice raid was the second within a week on the East Side. Two plainclothesmen posing as out-of-town salesmen arrested five women last Thursday in an apartment described as a headquarters for $50 and $100 call girls. Their case was adjourned Monday until Thursday.

Police said Misses Jacobson and Broshier came to New York from Detroit 18 months ago and charged fees ranging from $75 to $100. Officers said the telephone in the sparsely-furnished apartment had been tapped for the past week. The women, who paid $200 a month for the apartment, described themselves as actresses and models.

Strike of Deck Officers Over

NEW YORK (AP) — A six-day strike of ship deck officers has ended and the issues in dispute will be arbitrated by AFL-CIO President George Meany.

Meany said the 1,300 strikers would resume work today.

The strike tied up about 60 American passenger and dry cargo ships berthed in Atlantic and Gulf Coast ports.

Agree on Issues

Meany announced Monday night that the strikers' union and management had agreed on the issues he is to arbitrate.

Arbitration sessions will start here Oct. 21.

The deck officers are members of the International Organization of Masters, Mates and Pilots. The 23 shipping companies involved are represented by the American Merchant Marine Institute.

The union president, Capt. Robert E. Durkin, announced that the union had ordered the officers to return to their ships.

The strike began shortly after last Tuesday midnight, when the work contract expired and negotiations were deadlocked.

Big Ships Aided Up

Ships tied up by the strike included some big liners such as the United States and the America. Wages are not an issue in the dispute. Among the union's goals are longer vacations, overtime pay for holidays, premium pay on ships that carry obnoxious cargoes and other fringe benefits.

The union, making a concession as the strike ended, agreed that four of the largest steamship lines could continue to control the hiring of captains. The union had sought to gain control over the placing of captains aboard 120 ships through union hiring halls.

Today's Business Mirror

By SAM DAWSON

AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — Leasing equipment for a factory or store instead of buying outright has won new adherents in the recession and today is reported more appealing than ever to businessmen eyeing the recovery under way.

It is the latest comer to this field of business management, joining the better known forms of leasing cars, trucks or real estate.

Tax Law Big Boost

Tax laws have given leasing one of its biggest boosts. But the rate at which automation and scientific research have made older machinery obsolete is tempting still more companies to look into the leasing method of financing the retooling of plants with expensive but competitive machinery.

Long-term equipment leasing (for three years or more) has grown since 1950 and is now estimated to be a 166 million dollar a year business. The present trend in business planning leads leasing's friends to predict it will reach the billion dollar a year mark within five years.

Whole plants, or divisions or departments are included in the activity as well as special installations in existing setups.

Capital Remains Tight

The tax laws enter in because high rates on company-owned equipment cut down the cost of leasing. Tax depreciation schedules also mean that in this fast-paced age machinery may go obsolete before it can be written off the books. To buy the new equipment to meet competition, the treasurer must dig up new working capital and this has stayed pretty tight for most companies since the war.

To see what business thinking was in this field, the Foundation for Management Research, Chicago, queried 1,837 companies from coast to coast. These include 44 lines of manufacturing, wholesale and retail firms, with total gross assets of 400 million dollars. Individual annual sales of the companies range from $250,000 to a billion dollars.

Future Is Brighter

The survey specifically excluded cars, trucks and real estate and any equipment leasing for less than three years.

The foundation reports to the United States Leasing Corp., San Francisco, that in 1950 only 17 of the 1,837 companies were leasing some equipment. By last year 89 were leasing equipment and 71 of these were leasing equipment worth $50,000 or more.

The future looks brighter. The foundation says 833, or 45 per cent, reported they are considering leasing in future, with 483 planning to do so within five years. About half plan to lease equipment valued at more than $100,000.

Locomotive Strikes Girl, She Survives

FRANKLIN, N. J. (AP)—A 2-year-old girl was hit by a freight locomotive last Friday and survived.

A 17-car Lehigh and Hudson Railroad train struck Christina Sierski as she was sitting with her back to the oncoming engine. She was tossed into a nearby street by the impact but suffered only minor injuries.

An AP story last Saturday stated mistakenly that the train was a New York, Susquehanna and Western Railroad freight.

Falls Victim Identified

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y. (AP)—A man who reportedly jumped to his death over Niagara Falls Monday has been tentatively identified as Herbert Vockroth, 59, of this city.

Police said a tourist saw a man climb a railing above the Horse-shoe Falls and drop into the water. They found a jacket and an automobile that belonged to Vockroth.

The body has not been recovered. No note was found.

YOUR POCKETBOOKResearch Outlay Is Good Key to Economic Future

BY FAYE HENLE

Many yardsticks exist that measure this nation's industrial growth.

One of these is the Federal Reserve Board's Index of Industrial Production. This serves as an excellent measurement of the recent past and often can be relied upon to predict the immediate future.

Gross national product — the dollar value of the goods and services we produce each year — in another fine index. Yet, this index fails to account for the declining purchasing power of our currency and thus is often discarded.

I've got a favorite among measurements foretelling our industrial future and hence the tempo of the economy. This is the amount of money that is being spent on research. Our future health and welfare depends to a far greater extent upon the new than the old.

Only occasionally does some group take a census of research expenditures. And usually the results lend themselves to some questioning, if only on the grounds of semantics. When company budgets are drawn up, expansion and replacement of the old often are lumped into spending for research and development of the new. Thus, if you are taking a wide sampling of expenditure for research it is almost impossible to get a figure that is 100 per cent accurate.

Yet I think I've uncovered some news that is good.

The American Management Assn. recently attempted a survey of expenditures for research and development among more than 800 companies and came forth with the confirmation that such spending shows a 4 per cent rise over last year's outlay of some 7.3 billion dollars — up almost 20 per cent from 1956.

The research business is definitely in the big business league, and in a year when cutbacks in company expenditures have been more frequent than increase, research is a growth industry.

To me this indicates an undeniable growth in industry and, specifically, in those industries where research expenditures are heavy — machinery, chemicals, food, beverages and stone, clay and glass. These are key industries that dictate which way the business winds blow.

Study of research expenditures can be important to us beyond indicating the general business climate.

If we ferret out which are the fastest growing industries, these are the ones in which we should concentrate when we plan to enter into business. These show what areas we should concentrate upon when job hunting or which industries hold the greatest promise for us if we are investors.

The fact that economists who watch research expenditure believe it will be close to a 10-billion-dollar industry by 1960, close to a 20-billion industry by 1970 and will quadruple in the 20 following years, should appease any qualms we might have for our industrial future.

Ferret out the most research-minded companies and, whatever your goals, their chance of fulfillment will be greatest.

BRIDGEUnlucky Expert Unguards Clubs

BY OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

The unlucky expert caught me in an unguarded moment and showed me the North and South hands.

"How should they be bid?" he asked.

"Any number of ways would be all right," I replied. "And the final contract should be six spades. I suppose you got to six spades and ran into a bad trump break."

"No," he said. "I take bad trump breaks as a matter of course. This time I sat East and did hold the queen-ten-nine-eight of spades. If my opponents had merely bid the normal six spades I would have kept quiet and set them one trick, but South barged into six no-trump."

"He let my partner's queen of diamonds hold the first trick but took the second. Then he cashed the ace of spades and went after the hearts. As you can see, the heart suit broke 3-3 and he was able to run five heart tricks. I discarded the ten of spades on the fourth heart but had to let a club go the next time. This gave South four club tricks and his contract. I think that is bad luck even for me."

"It sure is," I said, "and you know South could have made six spades also—if he had seen all the cards."

Await Tests of Gun Linked to Slaying

HACKENSACK, N. J. (AP) — Officials today awaited word on chemical tests of a shotgun believed to be the one used to kill ex-convict John Scanlon.

Scanlon, 38, was shot to death last Wednesday as he drove along Woodcliff Lake north of here. The shot that killed him was fired by someone in a 1957 Lincoln sedan. Police found the sedan later. Sunday a 20-gauge shotgun was found a half-mile from where the car was discovered.

So far investigators have offered no motives for Scanlon's slaying. He was employed by a longshoreman's union. He left a widow and five children in Pearl River, N. Y., not far from where he was killed.

The shotgun was sent to the State Police Laboratory at Newark for tests.

Ruth MillettSocial Hit May Be Just Foul Ball as Homemaker

"How do you keep a wife at home enough hours in the day to look after the children, keep the house clean, and get some decent meals on the table?"

A husband who reads this column asks that question and then explains, "My wife has so many irons in the fire that she spends far fewer daytime hours at home than I spend at my job. Though the kids often come home from school to an empty house and dinner is likely to be cold cuts and potato chips, my wife always finds time for bridge, club meetings, community fund drives, teas, luncheons, and the like."

"Please understand me. I want her to get out and enjoy herself," he recounts, "but I think she ought to stay at home long enough to handle her main job, which is supposed to be that of wife, mother, and homemaker."

I wish I had a ready answer for your question. Because there are a lot of husbands who would like to have it.

I don't have an easy answer for the simple reason that the woman who dislikes housework and whose children make her "nervous" can today find so many excuses for neglecting her main job.

She can go to work, become a clubwoman, lead a busy social life, or she can go in for time-consuming hobbies.

Whichever she chooses, she gets enough applause to keep her going. Very few regard her as a disinterested wife and mother. Instead she is referred to as an "active clubwoman," a "social leader," or an "expert" on anything from modern art to flower arranging. The fact that she's a dud as a homemaker doesn't seem to matter if she manages to shine somewhere else.

I'd advise you to put your foot down and demand that your wife spend more time at home. However, today's mail brought a letter from a husband who tried that. And a judge gave his wife a divorce on the grounds that he "criticized her housekeeping."

Until women themselves realize that a poor homemaker is a failure, and judge each other accordingly, there isn't too much you poor husbands can do if you happen to be married to a woman who won't stay at home.

Scientist Asks

Compensation for

Radioactive Work

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—A scientist who says that 36 years of work with radioactive substances have aged him by five years is asking the state for disability compensation.

Melvin C. Reinhard, 61-year-old physicist at Roswell Park Memorial Institute, said he retired last month on his doctor's orders. Roswell Park is a cancer research center run by the state.

The State Workmen's Compensation Board Monday took testimony on the case. Reinhard's attorney said it is one of the first of its kind in the nation.

Reinhard claims that excess radiation has contributed to a lung ailment, affected the skin of his fingers and fingernails and shortened his life by five years.

At the laboratories he worked with X-ray equipment and with radon, a gas derived from radium and used in cancer research.

Reinhard claims that he has received 1,000 roentgens of radiation and that this is five times what the National Commission on Radiation Protection considers a safe maximum.

His attorney says Reinhard is claiming the maximum $45 a week disability payments provided by state law.

Mother Offers $10,000 for Data On Slain Sons

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP) — Mrs. Belle Conley, mother of the two Aquino brothers who were slain in gangster fashion, promises $10,000 for information leading to the conviction of the killers.

Mrs. Conley made the offer Monday night. "I don't care what happens to me," she said. "My boys are gone. They're all I had."

She owns and operates the Virginia Hotel but has put the 24-room house up for sale. She also leases the 48-room Bison Hotel.

Frank Aquino, 28, was found shot to death in his mother's 1958 convertible last Sept. 13. Four days later the naked, acid-seared body of his brother, Fred, 25, was found in a field.

Mrs. Conley, 46, once served six months in jail for perjury in an investigation of the finances of a hotel. She was divorced from Amedeo Aquino 20 years ago.

Frank served five years for armed robbery and Fred was in jail ten months for desertion from the Army.

Police have been unable to solve the murders so far.

COMPETITION... that's what makes a big man little and a little man big. Competition separates the men from the boys.

Some stores thrive on competition... which is as it should be. But others get weak kneed in the face of it. They do weak things. They knock their competitors. Instead of improving their selling methods... instead of doing a shirt-sleeve, door-bell ringing selling job... these stores knock and criticize.

We speak from experience. We say to these "knockers"... don't envy those of your successful competitors. Do something about it. Find out what makes them prosperous.

A finance academy for the Rip Van Winkle Council, Boy Scouts was held Saturday, from 1 p. m. to 4 p. m. at the Clinton Avenue Methodist Church Hall.

Key men from each of the seven districts gathered for a session to outline the coming campaign. The Rip Van Winkle Council serves Greene and Ulster Counties and conducts a finance campaign in both counties outside the Kingston Community Chest area.

The advanced gifts campaign is underway now and the house-to-house canvass will start Nov. 1.

The academy was under the direction of William H. Eberle Jr., campaign chairman and Walter Balk, vice president of the council.

Eberle is manager of Purchasing Expediting at IBM. He lives on Amsterdam Avenue with his wife, Roberta and 3 children, David 7, Karen 5, and Robert 4. He has been active in Scouting and has served as scoutmaster. He is active in his church and in his community.

Balk is project manager of Production Control at IBM. Balk has a Scouting background from Cub Scout to Kings Scout. He has served with the Department of State before joining IBM in 1950. He is active in community affairs in Woodstock. He lives on the Saugerties Road, Woodstock, with his wife, Ann and children Peter 4, and Christine 5½.

The program began with assembly, bugler Michael Drummond of Troop 12, Old Dutch Church and the Cub Promise by Peter Wells of Pack 19, VFW Joyce Schrick Post.

The training session included presentations by Elwood Hitchcock of East Jewett, council president; Johan A. Aalto of Ashokan, Eberle of Kingston, Doubt Democrats Will Gain Much In Upstate N. Y.

LIBERTY, N. Y. (AP) — The editor of the Knickerbocker News in Albany says his newspaper's political writers can see no national Democratic trend strong enough to make serious inroads on traditionally Republican Upstate New York.

The editor, David H. Bettie, discussed the coming elections Monday night before a meeting of the New York State Council of Retail Merchants.

Neither party seems to be seriously interested in economy, Bettie said. He added that he thinks both parties should campaign against the present system of budget making.

Clifford A. Allanson of Albany, executive director of the council, urged retailers to take a more active part in politics, especially by seeking office. Only three members of the State Legislature are engaged in retail business, Allanson said.

The council earlier reelected Julius Weinberg of Dunkirk as president.

Also reelected were Kenneth C.

Richmond, chairman of the board of directors; James W. Hastings, Schenectady, secretary; and Arthur J. Newburgh, treasurer.

Named vice presidents were Arthur J. O'Brien, Rochester; Kenneth I. Van Cott, Binghamton, and Ralph H. Waltz, New York City. Jack Hanson Sr., of New York City, was elected to the executive committee.

The meeting ends today.

Red Riding Hood
Up-to-Date

Remember the old story of Little Red Riding Hood and of the dangers she encountered when she went to carry a basket of goodies to grandmother?

"Grandma, what big teeth you have!"

"The better to eat you up, my dear!"

Today's Red Riding Hood probably won't find a disguised wolf in grandmother's bed, but there's another hidden danger she may meet. She may be exposed to tuberculosis. Older people may have TB germs in their bodies, an infection from their early years when TB raged everywhere unchecked. They may never have suffered from the disease itself until, with the weakness of later years, the germs managed to overcome the body's defenses. Active TB in old age frequently disguises itself with symptoms which seem to be "just old age." Unaware that they have an infectious disease, older people may spread TB germs to those close to them.

It's a tragic fact that most cases of childhood TB can be traced to infection from adults, too frequently from grandparents who would be horrified at the thought of doing any harm to the little ones.

This doesn't mean that Red Riding Hood shouldn't go to visit grandma and grandpa. It does mean that they must make sure they aren't spreading TB germs. A chest X-ray once a year will spot TB. There couldn't be a better time to have that X-ray than this week when we honor the nation's grandparents.

And so, we can rewrite the dialogue of the old story:

"Grandma, what a beautiful chest X-ray you took!"

"The better to protect you from TB, my dear!"

Hurley Man Named IBM Project Head

JOHN F. KEELEY

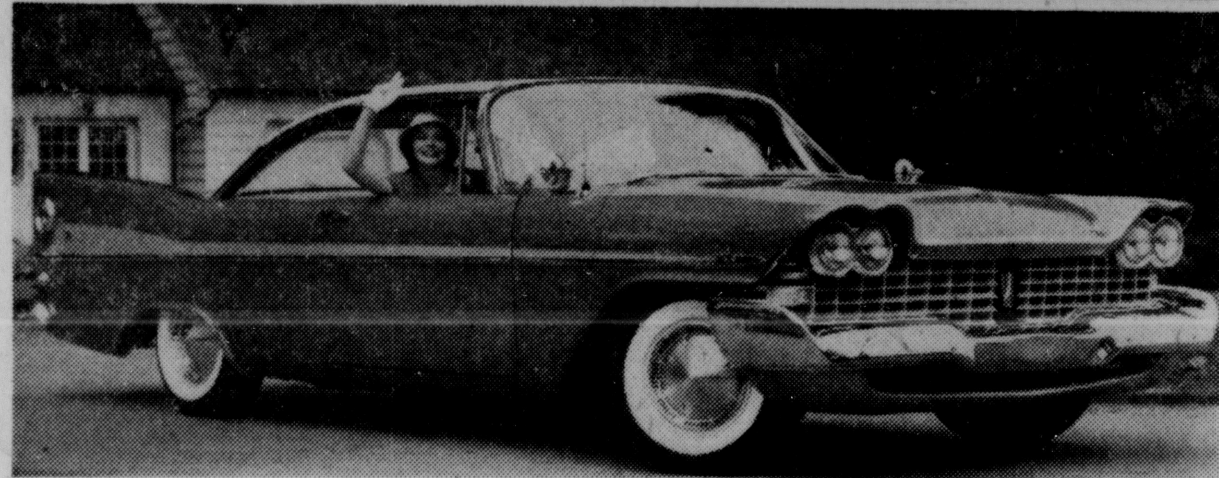

Source of Thames

The source of the river Thames, which flows through London, is a spring in a meadow in the Cotswold countryside.

International Business Machines Corporation today announced the appointment of John F. Keeley, of Hurley, as project manager in field engineering technical administration at the company's Military Products Division plant at Kingston.

After joining IBM in 1952 as a technical engineer, Mr. Keeley was assigned to test work at Poughkeepsie and Vestal. Promoted to associate engineer in 1954, he was named IBM Kingston field engineering group manager at the Bangor SAGE air defense computer site, Topsham, Me., in 1956. A year later Mr. Keeley was transferred to Kingston as manager of field reliability and quality.

A veteran of three years service with the U. S. Marine Corps, Mr. Keeley earned a bachelor of science degree in physics at Boston College and is a member of the Institute of Radio Engineers. Mr. Keeley, his wife, Patricia, and children, Kathleen, 1, and Michael, 3, reside at 31 Mountain View Ave., Hurley.

PLYMOUTH ADDS NEW LINE OF LUXURY CARS—Plymouth's new line of luxury cars, the Sport Fury models, will be shown to the public for the first time October 16 in dealer showrooms throughout the country. This new Sport Fury 2-door hardtop has styling innovations from the massive front bumper and the smart grille all the way to the new, outwardcanted tail fins. The new compound windshield curves into the roof as well as wrapping around the sides. The Sport Fury models introduce to the low-price field swivel front seats as standard equipment. Swivel seats are optional on four other models. All Plymouth models have improvements which reduce operating costs and at the same time improve performance.

1959 Plymouth Engines Offer New Fuel Savings

The 1959 Plymouth is offered with a choice of three V-8 engines and one six and a variety of transmission-rear axle combinations designed to provide top performance under all driving conditions. Bob Nadler, Kingston's only Plymouth dealer, announced today.

There are six different rear axle gear ratios and four different transmissions which engineers have tested to assure delivery of maximum efficiency in city traffic, turnpike touring, or mountain driving.

Important changes have been made in the engines to increase their performance ability and at the same time to increase their operating economy. Tests have shown gas savings up to ten per cent.

The 318-cubic inch Fury V-800 with 230 horsepower is the standard engine for the Savoy, Belvedere and Fury lines; the 260 horsepower Fury V-800 with Super Pak is standard for the Sport Fury and optional elsewhere; and the 361 cubic inch Golden Commando 395, delivering 305 horsepower, is optional on all models. The Powerflow Six, with 132 horsepower, is available in the Savoy, Belvedere, DeLuxe Suburban and some of the Custom Suburban models.

Displacement of the new Golden Commando 395 V-8 has been increased from 350 to 361 cubic inches. This high performance engine comes equipped with single four-barrel carburetor, dual exhaust, dual breaker distributor, special camshaft and heavy duty valve springs and dampers. It also has heavy-duty radiator, battery, starter, and air cleaner equipment.

The Golden Commando 395 is available either with manual transmission and 3.31 axle ratio or with TorqueFlite transmission and either the 3.31 or 2.93 axle ratio.

Whenever the TorqueFlite transmission is ordered, buyers have the option of getting at no extra cost the new economy rear axle gear ratio of 2.93. Exhaustive tests of cars with this gear ratio have resulted in gasoline savings as high as six per cent.

The Fury V-800 uses a single two-barrel carburetor as standard equipment. Greater low-speed torque and high speed "breathing" results from a new camshaft, and a redesigned intake manifold reduces warm-up time.

This engine is available with the following transmissions and gear ratios: Manual (3.54 or 3.91) PowerFlite (3.31 or 3.91) TorqueFlite (2.93 or 3.31) or Overdrive (3.91).

The PowerFlow six has important design changes for longer life and quieter operation. There are new crankshaft main bearings, and a higher capacity oil pump which permits the engine to operate with higher oil pressure. A hardened camshaft sprocket and a new timing chain produce quieter valve gear operation. Exhaust valves are newly designed and higher alloy steel is used in exhaust valve seats. Oil consumption is reduced with new tappet chamber baffles.

The Powerflow six is available in the following transmission and gear ratios: Manual (3.73 or 4.10) PowerFlite (3.73 or 3.90) Overdrive (4.1).

Glancing Over TV Bill of Fare

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—A couple of important things happened recently to Arthur Godfrey as he began his 30th year in radio and television.

First, a thorough physical examination—always a tense experience when you're 35 years old—revealed he was in perfect condition.

Like Night Show

Secondly, the critics and public generally agreed that Godfrey's new weekly night-time television show is better than anything he has yet done on TV. Discussing the show with a fellow the other day, Godfrey ruminated on past and present.

"For all of my 29 years of business," he said, "I've always been the producer, director, announcer, salesman, talent. For eight, nine years in television I did all of that. I had producers and directors, but they were so only in name, and the reason for that was that we all started together."

"They were radio people, the same as me. They didn't know any more about it than I did. When television first came along I said, 'I'm not a television performer, I'm not an actor.' I kept thinking of it in terms of movies, you know. I couldn't be a movie actor. I'm a radio man."

"I said, 'Now if you guys are silly enough to want to photograph my radio show, put your cameras in there, I don't care. Just keep them out of my way.' Well, for years and years that was sufficient television entertainment—to watch a radio show in progress, which is what the Talent Scout Show was."

Notes Sudden Change

"I don't know why, but all of a sudden in one year—one year ago this month—the audiences all of a sudden grew up, got very sophisticated. All of a sudden they want to be entertained on TV, they don't care about radio shows on TV any more."

Godfrey said that between October, 1957, and the first of this year the audience ratings of the Talent Scouts Show dropped 50 per cent.

"In a way it was very good. I decided that what I was going to do now was to get some brains that were capable of producing shows."

"Obviously what's wrong with TV—if there is anything—is that it lacks entertainment. People aren't being entertained. So let's entertain them."

(Tomorrow: Godfrey discusses his audience and why he doesn't want to retire.)

Among all gasolines sold in the East—this White Pump stands out!

At the Super Shell pump...and only there... you get the most powerful gasoline any car can use, with the anti-miss protection of TCP, plus savings of up to 3¢ a gallon.

Save 30 dollars or more a year on gasoline—get the most powerful gasoline any car can use—and protect your engine from spark plug "miss." That's what motorists who use Super Shell get! Here's why:

1. A "power pack" of aviation fuel ingredients makes Super Shell the most powerful gasoline any car can use, and gives it higher octane to prevent knock.

2. TCP* additive adds anti-miss to anti-knock, by neutralizing the harmful engine deposits that cause spark plug "miss." TCP brings back up to 30 lost horsepower.

3. Super Shell saves you up to 3 cents a gallon over certain other super premium gasolines. This can easily add up to 50 cents a tankful or 30 dollars or more a year.

Why don't you cash in on these benefits? See your Shell Dealer.

Thruway Decides

40-Cent Toll Is

The 18-mile section runs from Route 9 to the Massachusetts line and connects with the Massachusetts Turnpike. Another six-mile strip between Route 9 and the Thruway's mainline near Selkirk is expected to be completed in a few months.

Completion of this work, tolls will be collected at the Canaan, Columbia County, barrier, 6½ miles west of the Massachusetts line.

Shopping Center
Boom Collapses

WASHINGTON (AP) — The boom in construction of shopping centers is collapsing after 10 years of unprecedented building, the Urban Land Institute of Washington reported today.

The dwindling field was reported by Homer Hoyt, land economist and real estate economist, in a study made for the institute. Developers now must search diligently for a feasible site, he said, because:

"The market for new shopping centers of all types has been saturated, in many metropolitan areas."

The trend toward bigger and still bigger supermarkets is one factor discouraging new projects, Hoyt reported. Today's stores of 22,000 to 37,500 square feet require a sales volume of 3 to 5 million dollars annually, he said. They can no longer be supported by a neighborhood of 1,000 families.

Site costs have risen from between $200 and $2,000 an acre to between $10,000 and $40,000, the study said, and even at these prices land is frequently hard to obtain because of "organized opposition" by owners of nearby homes or by owners of commercial centers in the area.

The institute is a private research organization supported by real estate firms and others interested in city land development.

O'Neill's a Habit

NEW YORK (AP)—Selection of a young English actor, Ian Bannen, for a role in the London production of "Long Day's Journey Into Night," repeats the casting of the same role in the Broadway production of the Eugene O'Neill drama. The part was played here by Jason Robards Jr., who went to it after playing off-Broadway in another O'Neill play, "The Iceman Cometh." Bannen played the same "Iceman" character in a similar bandbox showing off the main London theatrical district.

Terrorism Continues

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — In a rising tide of terrorism by Greek Cypriots, two British soldiers, and a Turkish Cypriot policeman were killed during the night.

Seven soldiers were wounded in the four ambushes in different parts of this east Mediterranean island.

Reds to Export Diamonds

LONDON (AP) — The Russians said today they are going to be able to export diamonds from a rich discovery north of the Arctic Circle in Siberia. Moscow radio announced a seven-year plan for the development of the industry.

Buffalo Man Named

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP) — The New York State Humane Assn. has re-elected William C. Sullivan Sr. of Buffalo president. All other officers were also re-elected at an annual meeting Monday.

Backs Monetary Plan

NEW DELHI (AP) — Britain, West Germany and other nations threw their support today behind a U.S. proposal to increase the International Monetary Fund.

The fund supports trade in the non-Communist world with a pool of the various foreign currencies from which nations can borrow when short of exchange to pay for imports.

Derrick Heathcoat Amory, British chancellor of the exchequer, proposed at the annual meeting of the fund that its 67 member governments increase their quotas of contribution to the fund by 50 per cent.

Heathcoat Amory's speech heightened the general belief that an increase of fund quotas is likely. The members were expected to direct their Executive Board to study the situation and report by December.

All Tickets Sold
For Rockefeller
Dinner Oct. 16

All tickets have been sold for the dinner to be given on October 16 in honor of Nelson A. Rockefeller, Republican candidate for governor. The dinner will be held at Governor Clinton Hotel.

Announcement of the "sell out" was made today by Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson, chairman of the Ulster County Republican Committee.

"Over 550 dinner tickets were sold in a short time and all are gone 10 days before the dinner," Wilson said. "This is very gratifying to the Republican party. It indicates keen public interest in and enthusiasm for not only Mr. Rockefeller, who has truly captured the public imagination, but for all of our splendid state and local Republican candidates."

"I wish to express our thanks for this splendid public support and to all those who made this outstanding accomplishment possible," Wilson said.

"We regret that there are still many who would like to purchase tickets but who will be unable to do so. Every square foot of the dining spaces of the Governor Clinton Hotel will have to be used for those who have purchased tickets and we are prevented by limitation of space to sell more than 550 tickets," Chairman Wilson said.

A loudspeaker will be placed outside the hotel to carry the speeches made at the dinner and the state candidates will greet the people on the sidewalk and at Academy Green after the dinner.

CAIRO (AP) — President Nasser's hold on Syria tightened today with the elimination of a vice president of the United Arab Republic who hindered close Egyptian rule of the province.

A sweeping reorganization of the U.A.R. government to centralize control of both provinces in Cairo was expected to be announced soon.

Sabri Assali, the last premier of Syria before it voluntarily joined Egypt under Nasser last February, said he had resigned the vice presidency he got when the two countries merged. The government-controlled Middle East News Agency said he was dropped.

Assali was removed to clear the way for a central government instead of the present system of dual ministries for the two provinces, the news agency said.

A representative of the old school of Syrian politicians, Assali was a brake on Nasser's plans to extend Egyptian control over the new province.

Jailed for Liquor Sales

ALICE SPRINGS, Australia (AP) — Australia's best known aborigine, Albert Namatjira, was sentenced to six months at hard labor today for supplying liquor to fellow tribesmen who aren't allowed it.

Namatjira, 56, was granted full Australian citizenship rights two years ago in recognition of his artistic ability. That gave him the right to buy liquor. But Australian citizens are also liable to jail if they supply liquor to an aborigine who is a ward of the state, which most aborigines are.

Mob Plot Fails

BEIRUT (AP) — A club-swinging mob of several hundred today attempted to grab control of the coastal village where President Faud Chenab lives. Lebanese security forces smashed the attempt.

It was the 16th day of the general strike and rioting which is being led by anti-Nasser Phalangist party members. Most of their wrath is directed at the Cabinet formed by Premier Rashid Karami, who helped lead the rebellion against former President Camille Chamoun, a Maronite Catholic. The Phalangists, who are Christians, are demanding more representation in the Cabinet.

Upholds Sentence

TOKYO (AP)—The Tokyo High Court today upheld a 10-month suspended sentence given Sgt. I.C. Paul J. Webber, 39, of Havertown, Pa., for drunken driving resulting in the death of four Japanese. Webber allegedly was drunk when he drove his car into a group of Japanese repairing the tail of a truck near Yokohama near midnight Dec. 8, 1956.

Ask Visiting Family Members to Share Bills

Dear Mrs. Post: My husband and I and two children live in an all-year-round resort city. We both have large families living throughout the country, and many of the members spend their vacations here with us. We have just built our own house near the beach and it is a delightful place to spend a vacation. We enjoy seeing these relatives and we do have room to put them up.

However, it costs money to feed them and as our budget is rather tight I often have to take money from our savings to pay the bills. They always bring nice presents for me and for the children. I appreciate this very much but it doesn't help to pay the grocery bills. Will you please tell me if it would be proper to ask them to help share the food bills, and if so, how can I do it tactfully? As I said before, I do enjoy having them but I can't go on doing this on my husband's moderate income.

Answer: I think it will be best to explain your situation frankly to your two families and ask them if instead of the beautiful gifts they bring you they would help you with the grocery bills.

May She Speak First?

Dear Mrs. Post: I pass a boy in the hall at school many times during the day. We both know each other but have never met. Would it be proper for me to speak to him, or should he speak first?

Answer: Properly, a girl does not stop to talk to a boy who has not been introduced to her, but since you are schoolmates and you see him day after day, I think it rather better to say "good morning" frankly than to cast self-conscious sheep eyes at one another.

Should Teacher Rise?

Dear Mrs. Post: I am a teacher in a junior high school. The new principal of our school is a man younger than I am. Should I rise when he enters the classroom?

Answer: Yes. Regardless of his age he is the principal and you as hostess in your classroom should rise to greet him.

Details for a home wedding including flowers, bridal clothes and ceremony are listed in 'leaflet E-8, "Today's Typical Weddings." Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to Dept. EP, c/o The Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

Of Many Things

by DOROTHY A. NAREL
Freeman Society Editor

Now that you've discarded all your furniture after yesterday's article, let's proceed with decorating an informal type dwelling.

If you reside in a country house, farm house, city apartment, suburban apartment, ranch house, bungalow, Cape Cod, early Georgian, modern—you are living in an informal type dwelling. (According to interior decorators, that is!)

Your furniture may be of oak, pine, walnut, maple, fruitwoods, mahogany, reed, early 18th century American, provincial Victorian, contemporary, modern, French provincial or Pennsylvania Dutch. (Does that leave very much more from which to choose?)

Cottons and rayons, dull antique satins headline the textile department for this type of house, with silk and cotton plaids, stripes, printed cotton and linen running a close second. Mohair, dull casements, orange, broadcloth and muslin are also recommended.

Colorwise, our experts recommend clear definite shades of all primary colors and mixtures with bright accents.

Floor coverings for your informal abode may be wool and cotton twist, hooked, oriental, rough and smooth pile carpeting and cut-pile carpets.

Brass, copper, bronze, wire, tile, glass, pottery, china, plaster are listed as favorites for lighting fixtures in an informal type house. Accessories should blend with the lighting fixtures.

Formal Dwelling

Of course, when you consider a very formal type of house, your needs branch out into a wide field. You may even want to take just one room in your house and give it that formal atmosphere. For example, a drawing room, dining room, library, even master bedroom, fall into the formal category. An apartment in the city or suburbs, may also adopt a formal air.

If this be the case, your furniture may be of the following: walnut, satinwood, mahogany, rosewood, ebony, tulip or other exotic highly polished woods, Chippendale, Sheraton, Hepplewhite, Louis XIV, XV, XVI, Empire, Federal, Victorian, and Modern. (Amazing, isn't it?)

Luxurious materials are a must. These should include damask, brocade, satin, velvet, matelasse, moire, faille, tapestry, taffeta, boucle, mohair, silk guaze, brocatelle and linen.

A formal type room or dwelling calls for striking colors—brilliant sharp shades of red and green; strong pinks, blues and allied colors; black and white; pastels of all colors, and a wide range of gray and beige colors. The policy here—don't be afraid of color—use it.

Oriental, chenille and velvet floor coverings are favored in the formal house or room. Wall-to-wall carpeting of close weaves and carved carpeting, are also listed.

Naturally, in a formal-type house, you would expect to find figurines and candlesticks of the finest china, and this is as it should be. You would also see Venetian glass or other fine or delicate glass, marble, alabaster, silver and gold.

Elegant lighting fixtures would be made of glass, crystal, lusters, silver, bronze, ormolu, china, porcelain, alabaster and marble.

Of course, realistically, speaking, it is not always possible to furnish your house according to rules set down by interior decorators. It is possible, however, to listen to their advice, and then proceed to adapt their ideas to your needs.

Many interior decorators today have even taken to mixing traditional styles with contemporary and have come up with very interesting combinations.

But let your personal taste, be your guide. After all, YOU are the one who will have to live with your chosen decorative style.

Color in the Home

Since homemakers make many color choices daily, Color in the Home will be the topic of training schools to be conducted by Miss Catherine Eichelberger, specialist, for unit leaders of the Ulster County Home Demonstration Department on Tuesday October 7, Tuesday October 28 and Wednesday October 29.

At the first meeting to be held at the Municipal Auditorium from 10 a. m. to 3 p. m., the group will make color wheels and charts which will help them understand why certain colors go together. The second meeting will be devoted to application of some of this information to the homes of leaders where help in color is desired. Emphasis will be placed on helping homemakers make wise color choices to achieve pleasing and well coordinated color schemes in their homes.

Enameling On Copper

Mrs. Robert Atkinson will conduct three training schools for each of three groups on Enameling On Copper to be held this month beginning Monday October 13. This is a continuing project for leaders who have had basic training in enameling. Counter enameling, cloisonne, wall plaques and decorative boxes will be included. Each of the leaders will teach the enameling in their units at the completion of the training schools.

Yeast Breads

The second of three training schools on the making of Yeast

Breads will be held in two sections on Wednesday October 15 and Thursday, October 16. Due to a large enrollment it was necessary to divide the unit leaders taking this training into two groups. The groups will each have a demonstration on and make rolls and coffee cakes. Miss Therese Wood, Extension specialist and Miss Alice Aho, assistant home demonstration agent, will conduct the meetings respectively which will be held in the Fair Street Reformed Church from 10 a. m. to 3 p. m.

College of Hard Knocks for Your Children?

Not if you can help it, of course. But can you? By the time they reach college age, will the college you choose be able to take them in?

Let's hope so. But maybe not!

Many college classrooms are overcrowded today. By 1967, applications are expected to double. On top of that, low salaries are driving too many gifted teachers into other fields and reducing the number of capable people training for teaching careers today.

By the time your children are ready for college, there's a good chance the college of their choice just plain won't be ready for them—unless we take steps to remedy this situation now. You can help, by helping the college of your choice now.

Fabrics, Labels

In a recent bulletin to its membership, the Kingston office of the Ulster County Extension Service reported the following:

"With the many new materials being used in clothing you may become confused when you go to buy a garment. Here are a few things to look for in ready made garments which may help you in your selection.

1. "Does the label refer to the garment, or to the fabric alone? For example, a child's coat carried a label saying 'This fabric is guaranteed unconditionally washable.' But the coat itself had colored trim and padding interfacing which could not be washed.

2. "Does the label give directions for care? If the label says 'washable,' do not assume that it can be dry cleaned. If it says 'hand washable,' perhaps it shouldn't be washed in your washing machine.

3. "Does the label tell you the fiber content? You should know this in order to be able to properly clean and care for the garment. You will also want to know this in order to be able to buy the most satisfactory fiber for a specific use—such as the warmest fiber for a sweater.

4. "Are seams and raw edges firmly finished with adequate allowances for fraying or alterations?" "What do you know about the fibers that are comfortable to wear if it is hot, those that are likely to melt when you iron them, the fibers which are most resistant to wrinkling and the fibers which are strongest? For answers to these questions and other information on modern fibers and fabrics you will want to read Cornell Extension Bulletin 972, 'Today's Fabrics.' Those of you who sew will find the bulletin 'Sewing Fabrics of Man Made Fibers' helpful.

"In these days of new fibers, fabrics and finishes, we can help to keep manufacturers informed regarding the success or failure of their products. The best way to do this is to go to the buyer in the store where the article was purchased. A reputable store will welcome legitimate complaints and will relay them to the manufacturer.

"This will save us all money in the long run—manufacturer, retailer, and consumer. But it places a great responsibility on us as consumers. We must read, save and use labels. We must learn how to use and care for new fabrics. We must be honest, prompt, and courteous in our criticisms, and we must have a sympathetic understanding of the difficulties facing manufacturers, retailers, and laundering and dry cleaning industries in their efforts to cope with these new products of science."

Mary Virginia Blum - Frederick Christiana Exchange Vows at Immaculate Conception

MR. AND MRS. FREDERICK R. CHRISTIANA JR.

Miss Mary Virginia Blum, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Blum Sr., of 332 Abeel Street, became the bride of Pfc. Frederick Richard Christiana Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick L. Christiana Sr., of 34 Fairview Avenue, Saturday, Oct. 4 before a nuptial Mass at Immaculate Conception Church, Delaware Avenue.

Officiating at the double ring ceremony and celebrant of the Mass was the Rev. Joseph Sieczek, pastor.

Miss Theresa Gehringer was organist. Miss Eileen Reis sang "Ave Maria." "Panis Angelicus," "Mother Beloved," and "Mother at Thy Feet Is Kneeling."

White gladioli, white pompons decorated the church for the occasion. The family pews were marked with white satin ribbon.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a gown of white rosepoint lace fashioned with a fitted bodice, long tapered sleeves and a Sabrina neckline. The full skirt featured side tiers of nylon tulle and swept back into a circular court train. A princess crown of seed pearls and iridescent sequins secured the French illusion fingertip veil. The bride carried a prayerbook with phalaenopsis orchids, stephanotis and garnet roses.

Wearing a gown of emerald green chiffon was Miss Anne E. Conlin, the maid of honor. The gown was fashioned with a fitted bodice, cowl neckline and full floor length skirt. She also wore a matching crown of nylon braid with a circular tulle veil. She carried a fireside basket of yellow and white pompons, roses and ivy.

The attendants, Miss Catherine Clancy of Petersburg, Mrs. Richard Connor, Barclay Heights, and Miss Susan Haber, Eddyville, wore gowns styled identically to that of the honor attendants except in opal green and gold. They carried fireside baskets of yellow and white pompons, roses and ivy.

Miss Evelyn Theodora Blum, the bride's niece, who served as flower girl, wore a gown of white nylon sheer with a full floor length skirt and wide ash of emerald green satin, with a matching bonnet. She carried fireside baskets of yellow sweetheart roses and ivy.

Joseph W. Blum, the bride's brother, served as best man. Ushers included Richard Ackerman of Maryland, Richard At Connor, Barclay Heights, Robert Graney, Ulster Park.

Talent Service

NEW YORK (AP) — An employment service has been launched for graduates by the American Academy of Dramatic Arts. Frances Fuller, head of the thespic training center, said the project was motivated by "numerous requests received from the theater motion pictures, radio and television agencies: for promising new talent."

TOO PRETTY?—A 320-million-dollar airline and a 285,000-member union tore into each other over this basic problem: Does this girl's beauty upset office routine? Miss Joan Marchesani, 20, had been dismissed from her ticket agent job with Pan American because her platinum-dyed hair, among other things, upset the New York office. She was subsequently rehired, but that isn't enough for the Air Transport Division of the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks. It wants Pan American to admit that the girl was treated "unfairly."

Hadassah Members Plan to Reopen Shop October 13

An array of bargains in clothing and household goods awaits Kingston area shoppers at the "New and Nearly New" shop to be operated by Hadassah Oct. 13-17.

The shop will be open from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m., Monday through Friday at 597 Broadway in the Community Theater Building, according to Mrs. Arthur H. London, chairman of this year's sale. Proceeds will benefit Hadassah's Vocational Education Program.

Mrs. London pointed out that hundreds of new items in men's, women's and children's clothing, as well as household goods, have been donated by out-of-town manufacturers and Kingston businessmen. Used articles in excellent condition will also be available. A cake sale is being planned in conjunction with the sale.

Those who wish to contribute used items are asked to contact Mrs. London, 300 Pearl Street, or Mrs. Herbert Kleitske, 19 Mountain View Avenue for pick-up service.

Hadassah chapters throughout the country sponsor fund-raising projects for the vocational education activities designed to train young men and women to take their places in Israel's expanding economy. The Louis D. Brandeis Vocational Center in Jerusalem includes the Alice L. Seligson High School, offering training in homemaking, secretarial studies, dressmaking, dental and laboratory assistants' work, and the Vocational Guidance Bureau, a central aptitude testing agency for all applicants to Hadassah schools and workshops. The Brandeis center in Romea includes the fine mechanic and precision instruments workshop and the printing workshop.

"On the spot" work and theory are combined in studies at the centers. According to Dr. Edgar Freund, principal of the Romea school, "students from the second year on are taught through production. They are trained in an industrial atmosphere; they learn not only how to work but how to work with the utmost efficiency. They are, first and foremost, apprentices and are being taught to become highly skilled workers."

The center was founded 13 years ago with three students; this year the student body is being expanded to 170. Its products, including microscopes and other delicate instruments, are made on order for Israeli hospitals, high schools and institutes of higher learning.

Mrs. Nathan Pearlman, national chairman of Hadassah's Vocational Education Committee, pointed out that the Brandeis "stipend system" is demonstrative of the emphasis placed on practical workmanship. During each boy's first year at the school, he pays tuition, unless he has been awarded a scholarship; for the next three years the center provides him with stipends, which are reimbursed to Hadassah as payment for products manufactured by the student. The stipends serve as incentive to better work and study, foster a feeling of independence among the students and help youths to finance their education, Mrs. Pearlman said.

Mrs. Murray J. Fletcher is president of the Kingston Hadassah chapter, while Mrs. Robert E. Davis is vice-president in charge of vocational education.

U-A Group Is To Meet Oct. 8

He said there would be a number of committee reports, including a report of the by-laws committee, and that plans would be discussed for fall and winter months.

The Mature Parent

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Parent's Anger Is No Help To Irresponsible Child

The shop sells notions. Usually the proprietors—a man and wife—are both available to wait on customers.

But yesterday she was alone behind the counter. I asked for pink ribbon, and as she was turning to the shelves behind her the telephone rang. She said, "Excuse me," walked over to the instrument and spoke at once into its mouthpiece. "No, Nick," she said, "I can't talk to you now. I'm busy. I've got a customer."

Back with me, she selected a bolt from one of the shelves, explaining, "It was my boy. At 15, you'd think he'd have enough sense not to pester me. He knows his Pop isn't here. But kids have no sense of responsibility any more."

I had just said, "I think three yards..." when the telephone rang again. After the fifth ring, she answered it. "Didn't I tell you I can't talk now?" she demanded. "Leave me alone, Nick! This customer..."

"I don't mind waiting," I said. But she'd already slammed the receiver back on its hook and was preparing to cut off my ribbon.

The phone shrilled again. "Oh, honestly," she said. "This time I'll show him. Let him ring." But she didn't. Snatching at the phone, she cried angrily, "You just wait, Nick. I'll punish you all week for this..."

As I left with my ribbon, the phone was ringing again.

Her performance was not calculated to produce a responsible child.

It was she, not Nick who had experienced the entire conflict between obligation to me and obligation to him.

What would have happened if she'd said just once? — "Nick, I've told you I'm alone here. You know what that means as well as I do. Think over what you want to ask me again. If you decide that it's more important than my work, call me back—and I'll listen to you gladly."

Nick himself would have had to go to work on balancing his mother's obligation to him against her obligation to business.

As it was he behaved like a baby who expects other people to do all his thinking for him. (All rights reserved, NEA Service, Inc.)

British Jobless Up

LONDON (AP) — British unemployment last month was the highest in 11 years, 476,000 persons out of work. The Ministry of Labor announced today that one of every 50 workers was jobless. A year ago there were only 267,000 idle, or one in every 83.

The trouble is a minor recession in various manufacturing fields, due partly to overseas competition. Output in the manufacturing industry is running about 5 per cent below last year's.

A vacationist, out for a hike, passed an insane asylum and struck up a conversation with an inmate who was "painting" the fence with a brush and a bucket of straw. The inmate explained that he really wasn't crazy, just passing time there.

In an effort to augment the conversation the inmate pointed up the hill and said, "Inmate—See that tree up there? There's a lot of gold buried under it and when I get time I'm going to dig it up."

The following day the vacationist came up to the inmate, who was still "painting" the fence with his bucket of straw, and asked casually,

"Vacationist—Say, oldtimer, which tree did you say had all that gold buried under it?"

The inmate looked down at the vacationist's calloused hands and remarked,

"Inmate—Better get another pail of straw and join me."

Local Delegates Attend Jehovah's Witnesses Parley

Walter Carter of R.D. 5, one of the 72 local delegates to the ministerial convention of Jehovah's Witnesses in Lake Placid over the weekend took part in the Saturday afternoon program, when he spoke on "Proclaim Jehovah's Kingdom!"

The Kingston delegates were among the 1141 who heard the climactic talk Sunday afternoon by Frank S. Spack on the subject, "God's Kingdom Rules—Is the World's End Near?"

As head of the "Volunteer Service" department at the three-day convention, Mr. Carter disclosed that 245 workers were assigned to duties at the Olympic Arena.

Carter has been associated with Jehovah's Witnesses for 17 years, eight of which he spent at the world headquarters, Brooklyn, where he learned not only advanced ministry but organizational procedure. At present he is the assistant presiding minister of the Kingston congregation.

He has lived in Kingston for three and a half years.

Two newly ordained ministers from this area are Richard Macomber and Doris O'Neil, who were among the 31 who submitted to water baptism Saturday.

Only two signers of the Declaration of Independence became presidents of the United States: Washington and Madison.

15 British Cops Hit Jackpot in Record Grid Pool

LONDON (AP)—Fifteen policemen have hit the jackpot with a world record football pool win expected to be worth nearly $700,000. And the take isn't taxable.

The police station syndicate has filled in its pool coupon according to the same formula for seven years. This is their first win.

Each week the syndicate—15 policemen and 3 civilians working with them at the East Coast vacation resort of Margate—gamble 25 shillings ($3.50) on forecasting the results of Britain's football matches. Bettors have to pick eight tie games for a top score.

Monday night, a pool representative called on the happy cops to tell them of their success.

Their winnings beat the previous pool mark set by British coal miner Tom Riley, who picked up $209,079 pounds ($582,160) last April.

The biggest winner will be 38-year-old Constable James Upton, who has 5 of the syndicate's 25 one-shilling shares. He stands to take home about 50,000 pounds ($140,000).

Father of seven children and 19 years in the force, Upton earns 12 pounds 10 shillings ($34.40) a week.

"I'll probably carry on much the same as I am for the time being," he said.

CUMBERLAND, Md. (AP)—A fellow named Crowe who made like a turkey was shot by a hunting companion Monday.

Donald R. Crowe, 22, was in fair condition at a Cumberland hospital.

State police said Crowe was hiding in brush imitating a turkey so as to attract gophers for Ivan L. Abe, 26, of Cumberland. Police said Abe fired at what he thought was a turkey. It turned out to be Crowe.

John Pike Flies To Formosa for Air Force Work

John Pike, Woodstock's famous artist-illustrator, will fly to Formosa late this week on another exciting assignment in the Artist Air Force program.

Pike expects to be back in New York City by Oct. 30 when he is scheduled in a speaking engagement.

The assignment is the latest in a series awarded Pike by the Air Force program. The trip to Formosa will be MATS air service and is designed to capture the historical background and value of the island hard by embattled Quemoy and Matsu.

The program was developed several years ago by agreement between the Air Force, Historical Foundation and the Society of Illustrators of New York. The Air Force felt that specialists in the illustrating would more graphically portray and capture the spirit of the places around the world.

World Traveler

During some of his assignments, Pike has visited Germany, Thule, Greenland and the Andes, Ecuador and Colombia in South America. Pike is one of a group of distinguished illustrators called upon from time to time by the Artist Air Force program. Transportation is furnished these artists by MATS and travel is done in Air Force planes.

It has been learned that Pike may appear on a national TV network upon his return from Formosa. The details will be announced later.

Spahn and Ditmar Probable Starters for Sixth Series Contest

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer
MILWAUKEE (AP)—Two-time Milwaukee winner Warren Spahn and New York's Art Ditmar appeared to be the logical candidates today to pitch Wednesday's sixth game of the World Series.

Bob Turley shut out the Braves 7-0 Monday. That gave the Yankees their second victory in five games and fanned their faint hopes of becoming the first team in 23 years to overcome a 3-1 handicap.

Neither manager — Fred Haney of the Braves or Casey Stengel of the Yankees — has announced his pitcher as yet. They said enough, however, to indicate that Spahn and Ditmar would get the call.

Asked whether he thought Spahn, who pitched a brilliant two-hitter in the fourth game Sunday, would be sufficiently rested by

Wednesday, Haney replied: "He's got all winter to rest."

Spahn said: "I'll be ready, but it's up to the manager. If he asks me, I'll try to do the job for him."

Four Possible Choices

Stengel listed four possible pitching choices. . . Don Larsen, Ryne Duren, Johnny Kucks and Ditmar.

"Right now Ditmar would be the closest man that should pitch," he said. "He's better now than he was last year. I haven't had to use him in this series yet, but he's been my No. 1 early inning relief man all the way through. I didn't use him because I had no spot for him."

Stengel was especially pleased by the way his charges went to work on Lew Burdette Monday once they had the Yankee-killer on the ropes.

After touching him up for a run on Gil McDougald's third-inning home run, the Yankees routed him with four hits in the sixth. By the time lefty Juan Pizarro put out the fire, the Yankees had scored six runs and the game was no longer in doubt.

It was the first time the Yankees had been able to beat Burdette in five full meetings.

Sour Grape Department

Burdette didn't appear depressed.

"They got only one good hit off me in that sixth inning," he said, referring to Yogi Berra's double. "As for McDougald's homer, it was a freak. The ball hit the screen alongside the foul pole. It would have been a foul ball in our park."

Burdette would have had to pitch a shutout to match Turley's brilliant work. The strong-armed right-hander doled out five hits, all singles, and fanned 10. He walked three and was in trouble only once. That was in the sixth when Bill Bruton led off with a single and Red Schoendienst followed with a soft liner to left center. "As for McDougald's homer, it was a freak. The ball hit the screen alongside the foul pole. It would have been a foul ball in our park."

Proving Old Case Wrong Turley's Cute Curves Rocked Braves Sluggers Off Balance

By WILL GRIMSLEY

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Yankees are still alive in the World Series because Bob Turley had rather be a "cutie" than a powerhouse on the mound.

The 6-foot-2, 214-pound speedballer risked Manager Casey Stengel's wrath and a niche in the doghouse in pitching the Yankees to a 7-0 victory Monday at Yankee Stadium.

He didn't do it with blinding fast balls, for which he is renowned. He did it with curves and sliders which had Milwaukee's sluggers gawking with bats on their shoulders.

He was taking a gambling chance.

After Turley had been shelled from the mound in the first inning of the second game at Milwaukee, with the Yanks finally losing 13-5, Stengel reportedly was fit to be tied.

"The fancy stuff got him," Stengel said. "He is a fast ball pitcher. He should stick to his fast ball."

Waited for Fast One

On that occasion, Turley's curves, sliders and sinkers were missing the plate, forcing him to come in with his hard one. This was all the Braves wanted. They waited and teed off.

They waited again Monday, but without the same luck. Turley's teasers were clipping the corners and bending over the plate. The Braves' big guns — Bill Bruton, Hank Aaron, Eddie Mathews and Wes Covington — were constantly being caught off balance.

"I guess about three-fourths of my pitches were curves or sliders," he said. "I threw sidearm and overhead. I felt I was in control all the way."

Stengel had reason to be pleased.

"The difference in the way he pitched today and last week," commented the dour manager, "was that today when he threw a curve it was a strike and they couldn't hit it. In the other game when he threw a curve it was a ball and they didn't have to hit it."

Matthews Named Director Of Conservation Council

S. James Matthews of Kingston was reelected a director of New York State Conservation Council at its 25th anniversary celebration at the Hotel Utica.

Sportsmen's Clubs delegates from almost every county in the state concluded the annual three day convention, which ended Saturday. Hosts this year were the Federated Sportsmen's Clubs of Oneida County, an organization of 34 member clubs.

Conservation Commissioner Sharon J. Maugh addressed the members during their three day session. Another speaker was Hermann Hagedorn, of the Theodore Roosevelt Centennial Commission. He reminded the group this is the 100th anniversary of the birth of our first great Conservationist and pointed out the development of Conservation really began with Theodore Roosevelt.

In a major resolution the council recommended passage of Milwaukee Constitutional Amendment by the legislature which would allow the present route of U. S. Route 9 and would take as little as possible of Forest Preserve lands.

Another resolution passed by the council asks for the appointment of a joint legislative committee for the study of all laws of the state affecting the sale, possession and use of firearms and ammunition.

Michael Petruska of Troy was reelected president. William Roden of Warren County was elected vice president to succeed Howard W. Whitmore of Little Valley. All other officers were reelected.

The group voted to meet in Niagara Falls next year.

Ulster County residents who attended were S. James Matthews, William Sherrill Keyser, William J. Goodman and Carleton B. King. At Hall, District Game Manager of the Catskill District and Warren McCum, Game Manager of the Lower Hudson District, also attended.

Facts-Filbert On The Series

By BEN OLAN

Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Figuring the World Series:

Bob Turley is only the second pitcher in World Series history to strike out 10 or more batters in two series games. The Yankee right-hander fanned 11 Dodgers in the sixth game of 1856 and set down 10 Braves Monday. The only other pitcher to fan 10 or more in two games was Walter Johnson.

The Yankees will be out to snap a four-game series winning streak at home by the Braves Wednesday. Milwaukee won its last two games against New York in 1957 and the first two in County Stadium this year.

In addition to tying one series record — most hits (59) and setting another most total bases (97) Yogi Berra of the Yanks also has broken the record for most times at bat in the series. He has batted 215 times. The old mark was 199 by Joe DiMaggio.

McDougald's third inning homer Monday put him in seventh place in the all-time series listings. Gil has six. Babe Ruth leads with 15 followed by Mickey Mantle 11, Lou Gehrig and Duke Snider 10 each. Joe DiMaggio 8 and Goose Goslin 7.

The Yanks are out-slugging the Braves. New York has a slugging mark of .361 with 57 total bases in 158 times at bat. Milwaukee has an average of .358 with 62 total bases in 173 trips.

By scoring six runs in the sixth inning Monday, the Yanks tied a series record. The New York Giants, in the third game of 1933, and the Boston Braves, in the fifth game of 1903, also had six runs in the sixth frame.

Army Moves to Third Auburn Tigers Replace Oklahoma in No. 1 Slot

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Auburn's Tigers, back in the familiar spot at the top of the national college football rankings, take on Kentucky next Saturday in an effort to become the first team to hold that place for more than a week this season.

Auburn, national champion last year, was rated only fifth in the preseason Associated Press poll of sports writers and broadcasters. Ohio State was picked as No. 1. In just two weeks those positions have been reversed.

Ohio State slid after its second straight close call, a belated 12-7 decision over Washington.

Auburn climbed to the top with rather impressive victories over Tennessee and Chattanooga, drawing a rush of first-place votes from the experts to lead Oklahoma by 99 points this week.

According to the voting, the Game of the Week should be the meeting between third-ranked Army and fourth-ranked Notre Dame at South Bend, Ind., Saturday. Another meeting of top 10 teams pits Michigan State, No. 9, against Pittsburgh, No. 10, at East Lansing, Mich.

Get 43 Ballots

Auburn drew 43 first-place votes from a total of 107 ballots this week and 813 points on the usual scoring basis of 10 for first, 9 for second, etc. Oklahoma trailed with 24 first and 714 points. Behind them were Army, Notre Dame, Ohio State, Wisconsin, Mississippi, Clemson, Michigan State and Pitt in order. Although the ranking order was completely shuffled, the only newcomer to the top 10 was Pitt, replacing Iowa.

The leading teams, with first-place votes in parentheses:

1. Auburn (43)	813
2. Oklahoma (24)	714
3. Army (7)	678
4. Notre Dame (7)	654
5. Ohio State (8)	589
6. Wisconsin (6)	456
7. Mississippi (1)	357
8. Clemson (4)	301
9. Michigan State (1)	248
10. Pittsburgh (2)	214

The second 10:

11. Louisiana State	101
12. Navy	94
13. Purdue	93
14. Michigan (1)	81
15. Oregon	68
16. Texas	63
17. Iowa	32
18. Southern Methodist (1)	23
19. Colorado	22
20. Houston (tie)	22

The two other unbeaten DUSO teams, Kingston and Poughkeepsie will also see action. The Maroon will play at New Rochelle and the Pioneers will play host to Linton of Schenectady, formerly Nott Terrace High School.

Port Jervis, which gave Poughkeepsie a thrilling battle before bowing last week, is idle this weekend.

The standings:

Team	W	L
Poughkeepsie	2	0
Kingston	1	0
Newburgh	0	0
Middletown	0	1
Port Jervis	0	2

The Hudson Valley Bowling League, which may or may not be going through its final season, has again heaped the supreme accolade on Kingston bowlers. It might be interpreted as a back-hand compliment, with a slight reverse spin on the cue ball, but there it is in the records.

It seems that through the years Kingston bowlers, notably Jones Dairy, have caused other HVBL members endless anguish by winning the miscellaneous team and individual high score prizes with unflinching regularity.

As one HVBL unfortunate put it: "Why should the Hudson Valley League automatically turn over $100 worth of prizes to Jones Dairy every year?" A fair question, except it disregards the ancient premise that bowling is traditionally a home-and-home affair in which you take your chances on your alleys and I'll take my chances on our alleys.

The new HVBL gimmick is to award separate prizes for home and road high scores, a plausible plan no doubt motivated by a genuine desire to spread the riches of the HVBL around the league. But it reeks of premeditation and is aimed directly at Kingston bowlers. That's what makes the HVBL the bush circuit that it has rapidly deteriorated into in recent years. If this were the last year of the HVBL, we know several topnotch Hudson Valley pin-men who would hardly shed a tear over it.

• They Hit Them—Anywhere:

Let us examine the Kingston record in the light of past accomplishments and try to arrive at some conclusion. It has been proved conclusively that Kingston bowlers sooner or later will solve any pair of planks they settle on. This was true in the days of the old Central Recreation, Emerick's Recreation and the latter day Ferraro Bowlerama and Sangi Bowlero. They knocked off huge totals on alleys 15 and 16 at the Centrals when they were brand new drives. They murdered 5 and 6 at the Centrals, then moved to 7 and 8 and did a more lethal job on the pins.

Hudson Valley combinations have "lived" on a pet pair of drives but failed to consistently hit the planks like Kingston bowlers. We recall a tremendous Newburgh lineup of Tony Mack, Nick Leece, Pat Tarsio, Al Crisci and Johnny Martini. They hammered some terrific totals without causing the HVBL bylaws to be changed.

The theory of inter-city league play has always been: you solve your alleys and let the other fellow worry about his: It's as valid today as it was the first day a bowling ball was thrown.

• Signs of the Decline:

The HVBL introduced the "position night" system last season and it insured the demise of Jones Dairy. The Dairy-men and Dutchess Recs tangled in a nine-game set in the days of the Joneses were as cold as the 1958 Yankees and the Poughkeepsie keggers walked off with nine straight victories. That broke the back of Jones Dairy's hopes for another league pennant.

There are those who will argue there is considerable merit in such gimmicks as position play and home-and-away prizes in a major travelling league. We don't intend to argue with those quarters. We do know that the HVBL, instead of building itself to one of the finest leagues in the state, has gone downhill at an alarming rate. The deterioration set in several years ago when it began to substitute quantity for quality. These latter day gimmicks are only symptoms.

Plan to Liberate Several Shipments of Pheasants

Several shipments of pheasants will be liberated in Ulster County Wednesday by State Conservation Department officials, Frank Hornbeck said today.

Two trucks will be available for the liberation. Truck No. 1 will meet at the Highland traffic circle at 6 a. m., Wednesday to begin liberation of Protector Roberts' birds. About 9 a. m., it will meet Protector Schnell at Ireland Corners and release the birds for his territory. At 12:30 it will meet Protector Fredenburgh in front of the Kerhonkson post office to release birds for his territory.

Truck No. 2 will meet protector Gillen at 6:30 a. m. at Broglie on Route 9W and liberate birds for that territory. At 9:30 a. m. the truck will meet Protector Overbaugh at the By-Pass Diner on Route 9W north of Kingston and release birds. At 11 a. m., it will meet Protector Bernstein in front of the Woodstock post office and liberate birds for his territory.

Brown Explains Great Running

CLEVELAND (AP) — Fullback Jim Brown of the Cleveland Browns has a simple explanation for his spectacular running: "It's just a matter of not giving up."

"When you make contact," Brown said, "if you don't think about it, if you haven't practiced it, you sort of concede the tackle."

"But lots of times, if you give an extra surge, you can pull out," he said and added: "Lots of times they think they have got you and sort of let up. And when the tackler lets up, the 225-pound Brown is apt to be off for another touchdown."

Last year, when he was the National Football League's rookie of the year, Brown led the league in rushing with an average carry of 4.7 yards. He gained 237 yards in a game against the Los Angeles Rams. That broke the record of 223 yards in a single game set by the Rams' Tom Wilson in 1956.

When Brown went 23 yards for his first touchdown in the 45-12 victory against Pittsburgh Sunday he appeared to be stopped several times.

His second touchdown came on a wide swing around end that was good for 59 yards. A defensive halfback, the safety man and a line-backer had chances to tackle Brown, but he shook them off.

Gary Glick, Steelers' defensive back, had a chance just as Brown broke into the open.

"I saw him coming from the right," Brown said, "and thought of cutting back. But I decided I could beat him and put on an extra jet."

Glick managed to get one hand on Brown before the Cleveland fullback flashed by and into the end zone.

Knicks, Warriors Play October 14 In Bridge City

The New York Knickerbockers and the Philadelphia Warriors, of the National Basketball Assn., clash Tuesday evening, Oct. 14, in the Poughkeepsie High School gym, featuring many of the outstanding players in the pro court circuit.

The high scoring Knicks, paced by the veterans Kenny Sears, Willie Naulls, Carl Braun, Richie Geurin, Mel Hutchins, and Ron Sobie, set eight league records last season in averaging 112.1 points for a 72-game schedule.

Behind these proven stars the Madison Square Garden team will present a collection of promising rookies, headed by Mike Farmer, Univ. of San Francisco; Peter Brennan and Joe Quigg, North Carolina, and Jerry Bird, Kentucky.

Philadelphia will counter with its famous one-two punch, Paul Arizin and Neil Johnston, and holdovers Tom Gola, Woody Sauldsberry, Jack George, Ernie Beck and Joe Graboski. Arizin, former Villanova ace, led the Warriors in scoring last season for the third straight time, with 1,406 points for a 20.7 average, fifth best in the NBA. Johnston stalled 1,388, averaging 19.5, for eighth spot among the league leaders.

Each rival will present a new coach. New York's mentor is now Fuzzy Levine, former St. John's University and pro stand-out, who succeeded Vince Boryla. The Warriors are led by Al Cervi, who piloted the Syracuse Nationals to an NBA title in 1955. Cervi, who replaced George Senesky at the Philadelphia helm, was at Syracuse eight and a half seasons. His clubs won three Eastern Division titles and twice went to the playoff finals.

Comets, Jets Win Game In YM Hockey League

Comets and Jets won opening games in the Cadet division of the Kingston YMCA floor hockey league.

The Comets nipped the Rockets, 3-2, with Scott Sharot scoring all three points for the winners. Gary VanEtten had both points for the Rockets.

Danny Potter had three goals to lead the Jets to a 6-5 win over the Zips in the other contest. Bob Baltz scored three goals and Bob Rondie two for the losers.

This Saturday's schedule finds the Comets meeting the Zips and the Rockets and Jets clashing.

Purple Wave Is Big Threat To End Streak

What may turn out to be the biggest hurdle in quest of a third straight unbeaten season will face Kingston High School's football team Saturday as it journeys to Westchester County for a game with tough New Rochelle.

The Purple Wave looms as the best club in Westchester County for the third straight year, despite the loss of 13 lettermen, eight of whom were first stringers.

New Rochelle opened its season last week and lost a 20-6 decision to Mt. St. Michael of the Bronx. It was only the third loss in the last three years for New Rochelle and Mt. St. Michael turned the trick all three times. The Bronx club is a choice to win the Metropolitan Catholic High School Football league championship.

Second Meeting

This will be the second meeting between the two clubs. Back in 1939, Kingston was beaten, 24-0. The other DUSO League schools to play the Purple Wave were Port Jervis in 1933 and Middletown in 1932, 1933 and 1950. Port Jervis was humbled, 26-0, and the Middies were beaten, 7-0, 52-14 and 19-7.

This year the home club is relying on the one-two punch of speedsters, Dick Austin and Jim Small. Austin is a track star and is a wing back in the New Rochelle multiple offense. He was the team's second highest scorer in 1957. Small, a substitute last season behind the dynamic John Counts, scored the team's only touchdown against Mt. St. Michael on Saturday when he ran back a second half kickoff 87 yards. He is very elusive in the open field.

In Roosevelt "Archie" Umstead, New Rochelle has the number one defensive linebacker in the metropolitan area. Dripping wet he scales only 140 pounds, but in 1957 he was credited with almost half the tackles in most games.

Other stars on the club include Ted "Duke" Gamble at fullback, a pair of six foot, three inch ends in Frank Finsthaite and Tom Breunich and a pair of huge tackles, Tom Tallarini and Jeff New. Tallarini tips the scales at 255 pounds.

Of the 13 lettermen lost, Counts is the player the Westchester County school misses the most. He was high scorer in the met area last year with 137 points on 21 touchdowns and 11 extra points. He averaged more than 10 yards a carry and set two new county marks, including a run of 105 yards.

Cadets Beaten

Among victims of New Rochelle last year was New York Military Academy. The Cadets, who bowed to Kingston, 18-12, last season, were humiliated 42-7, in a game at New Rochelle. And since 1926, the Purple Wave has won 165, lost only 63 and has had 14 ties. That's a winning percentage of .736.

Kingston came out of the NYMA game in good physical shape. Star halfback Hobie Armstrong gave proof that his ankle has mended properly as he scored three touchdowns, two of them on long runs. The defensive line held the heavier Cadet team to only seven first downs and less than 100 yards on the ground.

Burke Pleased

Coach Bill Burke said he is pleased with the way the club has improved since the first game and he looks for an even greater improvement this weekend. From the looks of things, only an all-out performance by Kingston will achieve a victory.

Game time is 2 p. m. at McKenna Field, which is located directly behind New Rochelle High School on Woodrow Wilson Drive, off North Avenue in New Rochelle.

Scoring touchdowns in three different periods, Kingston High School's Jayvees opened their season yesterday by trimming the New York Military Academy Junior Varsity, 21-13.

The winners scored in the first quarter taking the opening kickoff with fullback Bob Decker ramming over from the seven. He then plunged for the extra point.

A 50-yard pass play from quarterback Cliff Miller to Paul Gardner gave Bill Hurley's gridders another score in the second quarter. Bob Keating then ran for the extra point.

The final touchdown was scored in the fourth stanza when Dick Slicker ran 30 yards to climax a long drive. Miller made the extra point on a quarterback sneak.

The Cadets scored touchdowns in the first and third quarters. The Maroon Jayvees will play at Newburgh next Tuesday. The freshman team, winner over Newburgh in its opener, will play the Goldbacks here Monday morning and will play at Arlington next Thursday.

Arizin to Lead Warriors In Annual Tilt at Kingston

Paul Arizin, one of the greatest scorers in the history of the National Basketball Association, will lead the Philadelphia Warriors this year as they try for honors in the Eastern Division of the NBA. The Philadelphia Club will appear in the Kate Walton Field House on Friday, Oct. 17, against the Syracuse Nationals in an exhibition game. As in previous years, the contest will be sponsored by the Kingston American Legion Post.

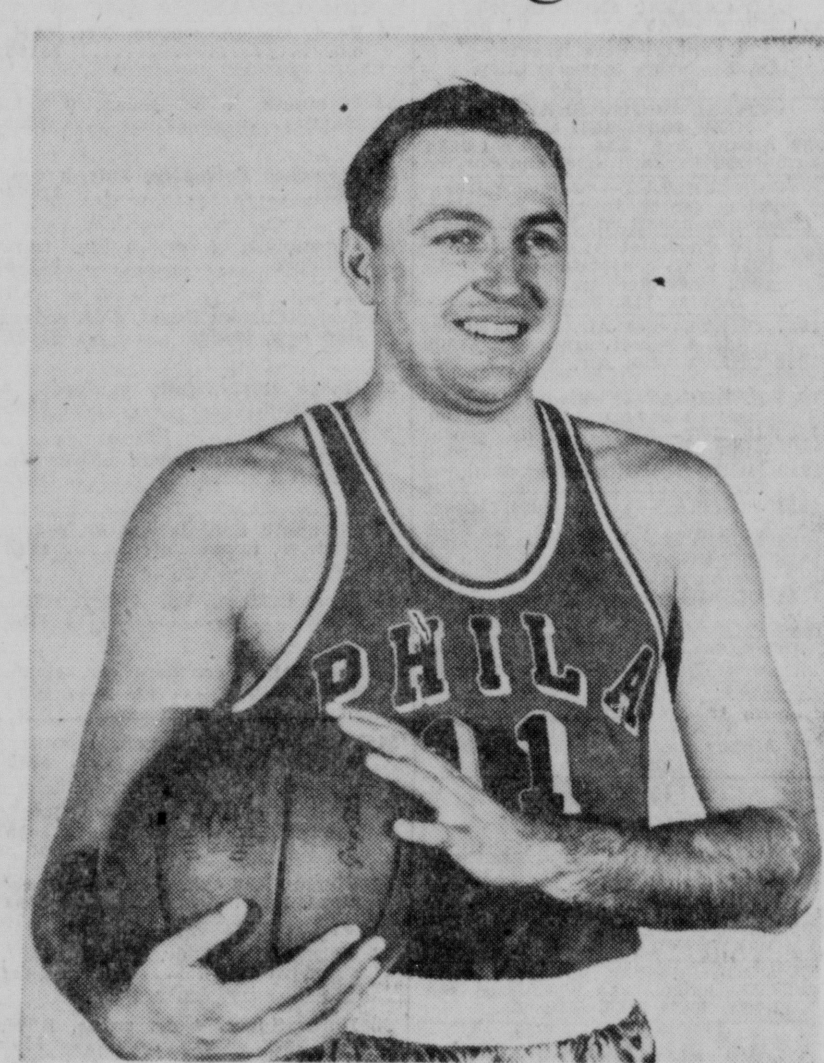

One of the country's greatest collegians while at Villanova University, Arizin is starting his seventh season in professional basketball. He topped the country in scoring while in college and also played two years of outstanding basketball while in the Marine Corps.

Arizin is considered the greatest exponent of the jump shot in the league. He is one of three men to win the scoring title more than once, copying honors in the 1951-52 season with 1,674 points, and again in 1956-57 with 1,817 points. Last year the Warriors ace ranked fifth with 1,406 points for an average of 20.7 a game.

The Warriors do not depend entirely on Arizin to supply their punch. Neil Johnson, former Ohio State star, has led the league in scoring three times and boasts one of the deadliest hook shots in the business. Last year, despite a series of injuries, Johnson was eighth in the circuit in scoring with 1,388 points for a 19.5 average. He has also led the club in rebounding the past six years and considered one of the best percentage shooters in the league.

Veterans Joe Graboski, Jack George, Ernie Beck, Tom Gola, Woody Sauldsberry and George Dempsey and rookie Andy Johnson are expected to make Coach Al Cervi's first year at the helm a successful one. Cervi previously coached for many years with Syracuse and led the club to several successful seasons.

Pete Plans Comeback — COLUMBUS, Ga. (AP) — Still confident there's a spot in the professional ring for him, Pete Rademacher said here today he is planning another comeback. Rademacher has had only two professional bouts after winning the Olympic heavyweight crown. He had tongues wagging when he knocked Heavyweight Champion Floyd Patterson down in his first bout. Patterson won the fight by a knockout. He then underwent a severe beating at the hands of Zora Foley.

WARRIOR ACE—Leading the Philadelphia Warriors into this year's National Basketball Association season is Paul Arizin, the league's leading scorer on two different occasions. The Warriors will appear next Friday, October 17, at the Kate Walton Field House against the Syracuse Nationals.

Howard Finest Catcher Who Ever Played Outfield

By JACK CLARY

Associated Press Sports Writer NEW YORK (AP) — Some persons say Elston Howard is a fine outfielder, others say he is even a finer catcher. But as far as the New York Yankees are concerned today he is the finest catcher they have in their outfield.

His diving, twisting catch of Red Schoendienst's sinking line drive with Bill Bruton on first base and none out in the sixth inning of Monday's game is proof positive.

His throw doubled Bruton at first base, nipping a budding Milwaukee Braves rally that could have tied the score 1-1 as Ed

Mathews, the next batter, singled. "That double play by Howard was the turning point for me," Yankee right-hander Bob Turley said after hanging up the 7-0 victory that cut the Braves' margin to 3-2.

A Clutch Play "That catch of his (Howard's) was a real boost to the morale of this club. It showed them we could get those other guys out, and you saw what we did when we came to bat that inning," Yankee Manager Casey Stengel said. His boys pumped across six runs off loser Lew Burdette to sew up the game.

Howard shrugged off the whole incident amidst a barrage of popping flash bulbs, insistent reporters and the plaudits of his mates. "Aw, listen," he said, "I'm a better catcher than I am an outfielder, but I'll tell you this, if they want me to play in the outfield, then I'm a better outfielder than I am catcher."

"Look, I'm no stranger in that outfield," Howard parried a questioner who wondered which position he preferred. "Before this year I was always out there."

In three previous World Series, Howard played the outfield twice, and last year was a first baseman.

During the regular season, Stengel had him in the outfield, and catching, as Howard compiled a net .314 season's average, with 11 home runs and 66 runs batted in.

Seitz Elected Head Of Kennel Club

A. P. J. Seitz, Kingston, was elected president of the Mid-Hudson Kennel Club at a recent dinner-meeting at Talbot's Inn, Pleasant Valley.

Others elected were Philip Anspach, Elizaville, first vice president; Mrs. Joseph R. Keesler, Newburgh, second vice president; Miss Marian Raulins, Clinton Hollow, secretary; Kenneth Lasher, Dover Plains, treasurer; and Mary McDonald, Kingston; Mrs. Anspach; Mr. and Mrs. Dean Holman, Poughkeepsie; Mrs. Ada Russell, Staatsburg and Mrs. Lasher, directors.

The new president appointed Mr. Lasher as chairman of the club's annual show and Mrs. Holman as obedience chairman.

Burdette Beaten But Not Subdued

By JACK HAND

Associated Press Sports Writer MILWAUKEE (AP) Lew Burdette, the Yankee killer of 1957, isn't quite ready to abdicate.

"The only ball they hit hard was (Yogi) Berra's double," said the Milwaukee right-hander about Monday's 7-0 defeat by the New York Yankees. "He hit a sinker downstair (a low ball) to right field."

The 31-year-old pitcher who had beaten the Yankees four straight before his fifth-game knockout, was only slightly subdued in the clubhouse after the game.

"I pitched as well as the other day," he said, referring to his 13-5 victory in the second game. "I just didn't have the atom ball. (Burdette's) atom ball is one hit right at 'em. I always said, 'I takes nine men to win a ball game."

"This was the same Yankee club as last week. I had just as much stuff."

Did Lew want another crack at the Yankees? "Its up to the man (Manager Fred Haney)," he answered. "I'm ready Wednesday if he wants me."

Of the big Yankee, sixth Burdette had this to say:

"The ball (Hank) Bauer hit had eyes. (A single). Mickey (Mantle) dunked a blooper (another single) but they've got to play him deep. 'Berra hit a sinker, and I walked (Elston) Howard on purpose."

Jamed (Bill) Skowron on the fists. He didn't swing. If he did he would have shattered the ball all over the place. He just punched it (another single that finished Burdette.)"

Pirates Sign Hurler

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Pittsburgh Pirates announced today the signing of right-handed pitcher Donald Newhart of Meshoppen, Pa., to a 1959 contract with their Clinton, Iowa, club of the Class D Midwest League.

Newhart, 19, had a 17-1 record last year with the Meshoppen sandlot team.

Cooperation Is Vital to Help Business: Ave

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — Labor and management must work vigorously together to cut industrial accidents, both to reduce human suffering and to brighten New York's business picture, Gov. Harriman said today.

The Democratic governor joined two top labor leaders, an industry spokesman and the state industrial commissioner as speakers at the opening of a two-day, statewide conference on occupational health and safety.

"By working together, we have achieved significant results," Harriman said in a prepared welcoming address. The 1957 record of industrial accidents was the best in 11 years, he said.

Yet there is much to be done, Harriman added. He said such accidents had cost industry 500 million dollars last year in wage indemnities, medical expenses, damaged materials and other costs. In addition, workers lost wages totaling $226 million.

Emphasizing that the state must also step up its accident-prevention work, Harriman declared:

"Our goal must be twofold. First, to reduce the human suffering and hardships caused workers and their families by on-the-job accidents; and, secondly, by cutting the high costs resulting from such accidents, to enhance the competitive position of New York State business and industry."

Will Support Dems

NEW YORK (AP)—Rep. Adam Clayton Powell (D-NY), who has been at odds with the Democratic party, said today he would support and work for election of the entire party ticket in the state this fall.

Powell also disclosed that he has been named as associate campaign manager for the state ticket.

Powell supported President Eisenhower in 1956. As a result, the Harlem Negro congressman failed to receive endorsement of Tammany Hall, the Manhattan Democratic organization, in his bid for re-election this fall.

The organization put up a candidate to oppose him. However, Powell got the party nomination in the August primaries, defeating City Councilman Earl Brown by a three to one vote. Powell also got the Republican nomination.

STRICTLY SCIENTIFIC—The current hula hooping craze has reached even the hallowed halls of Ivy, where it is now recognized as just a matter of Newton's laws of motion. At Southwestern College in Memphis, Tenn., President Peyton N. Rhodes utilizes the physics he formerly taught to whirl the hoop as an unbelievably cool pause in the background. Below is Dr. Rhodes' "explanation" of how it's done.

PHYSICS AND THE HOOP

"Actually, what is involved is the conservation of angular momentum, something that should certainly be conserved by all and sundry. It is merely necessary to exert a small, but carefully regulated impulse (the product of force X time) by allowing a hypersensitive sacroiliac to impinge on a small portion of the interior periphery of a short section of the hoop. The impulse, applied with some discretion, serves to produce a change in the angular momentum of the hoop, and if the force of this impulse is so directed that there is a small vertical component of this momentum opposing the force of gravity which acts uniformly over the plane of the hoop, then the resulting horizontal motion will be maintained with rare uniformity to the amazement of all beholders who do not realize that the whole deal is just as easy as falling off a log."

Albert Kurdt Is Chairman Of County '59 Celebration

Albert Kurdt, manager of Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce, was today appointed by the Temporary State Commission on Historic Observances to serve as Ulster County chairman of next year's Hudson-Champlain 350th anniversary celebration.

Others named to celebration posts are Edward M. Huben, of Rosendale, a director of the New York State Travel Council, vice chairman, and Alexander Yocman, manager of the Kingston Housing Authority, secretary.

Harry Rigby J., acting for the State Commission, of which he is a member, today presented to the three county civic leaders "Certificates of Appointment" documenting their formal appointments.

Cite Appointment
The certificates cite their appointment to the county committee "to assist the State of New York Temporary State Commission on Historic Observances, as created by the 1958 Legislature, in its preparation and participation in the historic events of the 350th anniversary of the Hudson-Champlain celebration."

The certificates were signed by Senator Ernest I. Hatfield, Poughkeepsie, commission chairman; Carl Carmer, vice chairman; and Assemblyman William F. Passannante, New York City, secretary.

Kurdt replaces Harry Rigby Jr. and Mrs. Harriett Allen Kerr, who were appointed co-chairmen for Ulster County by the Governor's Committee in 1957. Rigby offered his resignation from the Ulster County post upon his appointment to the State Commission in May so that he might concentrate his efforts for the Hudson-Champlain Celebration at the state level. He serves on the three-man executive committee of the commission.

Mrs. Kerr resigned her co-chairmanship upon her election as vice president of the Hudson Valley Council where she is called upon for greatly expanded duties on a valleywide basis. The Hudson Valley Council was formed initially by interested citizens to co-operate with the State Commission and other groups in promoting the 1959 State Celebration and general tourist and vacation visitation in the six mid-Hudson counties of Putnam, Dutchess, Columbia, Orange, Ulster and Greene. The Hudson Valley Council is headed by Dr. Harry Noble MacCracken, of Poughkeepsie.

County Cooperation

It will be the responsibility of the three new county leaders to enlist the cooperation of organizations of all kinds with Ulster County in planning for and coordinating activities for the local celebration. Much of the planning has already been accomplished over the past year, as a result of which Ulster County has been noted and commended as one of the three best prepared counties in the State of New York.

All of the state's 62 counties, as well as their municipalities, have been asked to participate in next year's festivities inasmuch as Hudson's and Champlain's discoveries both played a key role in the early development of all New York, as well as to the west.

Because all of the state benefited from these early discoveries, the Temporary State Commission on Historic Observances is urging all organizations and residents of the state to pay homage next year to these explorers, to instill in school children some of the state's rich history, to renew the interest in traditions worth cherishing, and to center attention of tourists and other states on New York.

Ike Sends Pope Message

Bar Association Honors Memory of H. H. Flemming

The Ulster County Bar Association honored the memory of the late Judge Harry H. Flemming at the opening of the October term of Supreme Court today.

On behalf of the committee, appointed by Robert Ortale, president of the Ulster County Bar Association, Vincent G. Connelly, chairman of the committee, presented a memorial resolution. Supreme Court Justice Donald S. Taylor, presiding judge, after appropriate remarks by himself and other members of the bar, directed that the resolution be made a part of the court record and that a copy be sent to the family.

Judge Flemming died June 14, last. He had practiced law in Ulster County for 56 years. He served as judge of the Surrogate's Court of Ulster County, as corporation counsel of Kingston and was a past president of Ulster County Bar Association and a past treasurer of the Federation of the Bar Association of the Third Judicial District.

Text of Memorial

Text of the memorial resolution follows:
By the death of Harry H. Flemming, which occurred on June 14th, 1958, in his eighty-fourth year, the profession of law in Ulster County lost one of its most distinguished members.

Judge Flemming was born in the Rondout section of the City of Kingston on February 13, 1874. His loyalty and civic devotion to this section was intense and everlasting and to the date of his death his city had no greater champion of the welfare of Rondout.

Made Own Way

In 1891 he was graduated from Ulster Academy. He was filled with the burning ambition to become a lawyer, but circumstances compelled him at that time to seek available employment. He went to work for the Ulster and Delaware Railroad as a shop clerk, and advanced to paymaster, to secretary to the general superintendent and then transferred to a clerkship in the Law Department of the Railroad.

Subsequently he enrolled in Albany Law School from which he was graduated in 1902 and in which year he was admitted to the bar of the State of New York.

He rapidly built up one of the busiest law practices in the City of Kingston. Clients ranged from the Ulster and Delaware Railroad, later the New York Central Railroad, the Cornell Steamboat Company, important business and industrial concerns, to many of our humble citizens whose interests were as zealously and fully protected as those of wealth and stature.

Judge Flemming was an office lawyer of great skill in solving matters of the most complicated nature. Most of all, however, he revelled in trial work and tried cases in all our courts of original and appellate jurisdiction, state and federal. With an orderly mind to marshal the facts, with the capacity for legal research to arrive correctly at applicable legal principles and precedents, with a vigor and animation of presentation, he became one of our most skilled and able trial advocates.

Served as President

Judge Flemming was a past president of the Ulster County Bar Association, and also served as treasurer of the federation of bar associations of the Third Judicial District.

During his legal career he served as Corporation Counsel of the City of Kingston. From 1939 to 1944 he was Surrogate of Ulster County and filled that important judicial office with rectitude, dispatch and dignity and scholarly achievement.

To us, his fellow members of the bar, he has left a rich legacy by precept and example of the honorable nature of the profession of the law.

Although immersed in and dedicated to the practice of the law, he enjoyed a life that was not at all one-sided but was full and complete in all aspects of human relationships.

Those who knew him appreciate that unusually strong ties bound him to his family. He was a loyal and devoted husband to his widow with whom he enjoyed a devoted partnership for and that for him the road's last turn was the best.

Therefore, be it resolved: That the Ulster County Bar expresses its deep sense of loss resulting from the death of Harry H. Flemming; and further

That these proceedings be inscribed in the minutes of this court on this day and that copies thereof be publicized and sent to the family of the late Harry H. Flemming.

Signers of the resolution were Attorney Vincent G. Connelly, chairman of the Bar Association committee; Louis G. Bruhn, county judge; Charles H. Gaffney, surrogate of Ulster County; John B. Sterley, former surrogate; Attorneys Martin F. Comau, William H. Grogan, Henry Klein, Walter J. Miller and Floyd W. Powell.

Fails to Clip Record

LONDON (AP)—A British Comet IV jetliner carrying 40 passengers zipped across the Atlantic from New York to London in 6 hours, 32 minutes today.

Capt. James Linton, pilot of the British Overseas Airways Corp. plane, said he probably could have beaten the 6 hours, 7 minutes record set Saturday if he had been allowed to fly 10,000 feet lower.

He said the tail winds at the 30,000-foot level were far stronger than on his assigned path this morning. The record was set by another Comet IV.

New York State has the distinction of being the first to organize a state educational system.
